St. Augustine, Fla.—Renouncing that President Harding is renouncing that Daugherty's prediction that the issues of the presidential party again and again since the political discussion of a week ago began.

Mr. Daugherty says taxation will be paramount. Former Governor James M. Cox, Democrat, says it will be the European economic conference and the Harding administration's failure to help American farmers and producers by supplying an export market.

It will be promptly suggested that the defeat of the Democrats in 1920 after an unexampled period of prosperity would seem to be an exception to the political rule, but Mr. Harding does not think so. He has often discussed the 1920 contest with his friends and he has said that if nothing else had crept into the campaign apart from the prosperity issue the result might have been different. He thinks that the accumulated grievances growing out of the war and the issues of reconstruction were big enough to submerge the question of prosperity in 1920. "We want a change" of personnel was the outcry then.

OLD FASHIONED CAMPAIGN
What the president means, therefore, is that ordinarily when there are no extraneous issues, the dominant thought of the country is more likely to be economic than anything else. In other words, he looks for an old-fashioned kind of campaign, the sort that is reminiscent of the "sound money" slogan of 1896 or the cry of the "full dinner pail" of 1900 and 1904 and the warning against "rainy days" which the electorate was urged to take to heart in 1908.

Mr. Harding is all the more impressed by this line of reasoning because of the universal enthusiasm with which the people generally seemed to greet the promised program of a return to "normalcy," which at the out-

TOKIO DIET ENGAGES
IN FREE FOR ALL SCRAP
Tokio—The diet was prorogued early Tuesday in the midst of a free fight, precipitated by a motion of the opposition to impeach the government. Trays and incense burners were flying through the air when, in the small hours of the morning, the speaker declared the session closed.

NOTED SCIENTIST DIES
London—Sir James Dewar, noted scientist, died Tuesday.

Sir James, a prominent British chemist, was the co-inventor with Sir Frederick Abel of Cordite, the smokeless powder adopted by the Germans. He also brought forward the Dewar flask, popularly known as the thermos flask.

Link Daugherty In Model Case

Only Son Of
U. S. Official
Being Sought

New York—Assistant District Attorney Pecora and Police Inspector Coughlin Tuesday joined in an active search for Draper M. Daugherty, only son of the Attorney General of the United States to question him concerning reports that he was a friend of Dorothy Keenan, murdered model that he might know of a blackmail ring using her as a decoy.

It was pointed out that Daugherty if he is, as reported, at Atlantic City, could not be compelled to come here to tell his story but the inspector declared he would be "glad to listen to" Daugherty's story.

Daugherty, who served for two years with the British army before America entered the war and then became a major in the American expeditionary forces, was quoted by a newspaper as saying that he knew Miss Keenan well and visited her apartments several times and on one occasion had given her a check to pay a bill she told him was pressing.

RECEIVES CALL
He began to suspect last Thursday after receiving a telephone call at a New York club, that he, like the mysterious "Mr. Marshall," identified Saturday as John Kearsley Mitchell, wealthy and socially prominent Philadelphia, was marked for a plucking by blackmailers, he was quoted as saying.

This call, he said, came from a man who had been close to Miss Keenan. The speaker, he said, asked him how about the job he had promised to get for him in the United States department of justice, which Attorney General Daugherty, his father, controlled.

Admitting he earlier promised this man to see what could be done for him, Daugherty was quoted as saying he told the caller he had spoken to a Mr. ... at Washington in his behalf. The caller he said, told him nothing had developed and added that Mr. Daugherty had to get the job for him, inquiring menacingly if he wanted his acquaintance with Miss Keenan to come out.

INVITED FOR THRASHING
Daugherty was quoted as inviting the caller to come up and take a thrashing. The man called again on Saturday he was quoted as saying asking again about the job in a conciliatory tone, but getting the same response from him.

Daugherty declared he had no fear that blackmailers could fasten anything upon him as his relations with the slain model had been most casual. He added that his only regret he said was that his father's name should have been drawn into the Keenan case, particularly in view of the fact that both his father and his mother are ill.

Daugherty was said to have been acquainted with both of Miss Keenan's brothers, John and Frank, and to have employed one of them for a time in his automobile insurance business here.

He laughed at reports that his appeal to Miss Keenan had been so strong that he had supplied her both Mr. Mitchell and Alfred Guinness, her younger admirer, in her affections.

CONFERENCES MAY HOLD UP HARDING'S GOLF
St. Augustine, Fla.—Whether President Harding Tuesday would be able to get in another 36 holes of golf depended upon some conferences which, it was intimated, might be held some time during the day. The presence here of many political leaders and members of the administration it was said seemed to add to the possibilities of several conferences with the chief executive.

Mr. Harding Monday was able to put in the largest day at golf yet encountered in his vacation trip. He trudged over the course twice around in the morning and another in the afternoon.

Paris—What is France's game in the Ruhr? Her only game is to get the money Germany owes her. Nothing more, nothing less.

It was Stephane Lauzanne who told me so, and he ought to know. Not only is he editor-in-chief of Le Matin, one of the most influential papers in France, but he is on most intimate terms with Premier Poincare and all the men who now compose the government.

I came to Paris to find out just what the French meant to do in their critical and crucial Ruhr enterprise. French officials advised me to see Lauzanne; he would speak with full knowledge.

"Plus away," said Lauzanne. "QUESTION NO. 1: It is charged by the enemies of France that, taking advantage of clauses in the Versailles treaty, she has made demands upon Germany so high she can't fulfill them and that France does not expect she will fulfill them. Is this true or false?"

Said Lauzanne: "The demands made upon Germany for reparations ($33,000,000,000) were not made by France alone. The figure was fixed in London in May, 1922, and the schedule of payment, which was then adopted by common agreement, was signed by Great Britain, Italy, Japan and Belgium, as well as by France. QUESTION NO. 2: Taking advantage of Germany's failure to pay, it is charged France has marched into the Ruhr intending to stay there, either annexing the Ruhr and the Rhine, or setting up a buffer state. Does France ever expect to leave the Ruhr?"

Lauzanne replied: "France will never annex the Rhineland or the Ruhr as long as Germany will not pay what she owes to France. "In other words, the Rhineland and Ruhr are considered by the French as a mortgage guaranteeing

SEEKING RETURN OF CIVIL WAR TAX

State May Start Fight For $1,332,750.66 Due To Individuals By U. S.

By Associated Press
Madison—The Federal government has $1,332,750.66 which rightfully belongs to about 2,000 residents of Wisconsin, according to Assemblyman Warden of Boyfield who is author of a bill introduced by the assembly Monday authorizing the state attorney general to prosecute a claim for the amount in the court of claims at Washington.

The sum represents taxes on personal property collected by the federal government during the two years immediately subsequent to the Civil war and which the United States supreme court has since held was illegally collected. The bill was introduced at the request of the attorney general who desires to prosecute the claim, but was without necessary legislative authority. The bill is expected to go through the assembly and senate without opposition, and no difficulty is expected in effecting an adjustment with the federal government, which recognizes the justice of the claim.

Warden said. A number of other states are bringing similar suits, he said.

Many of these who actually paid the taxes in question have since died, and in such case the money will be paid to their estate or heirs providing the proper claim is made. In cases where no claim is made within five years the money will escheat to the state. Mr. Warden estimates at 2,000 the number of those who will benefit by the tax refund.

Milwaukee—Ivan Kantcheff and Nicholas Annen, the federal prohibition agents who attempted to take away from District Judge George E. Fage liquor which had been used as evidence in his court, and which he was conveying to the police station, will be transferred to Kenosha, Clark M. Perry, federal prohibition director said Tuesday.

FARMER-LABOR
PARTY ISSUES
COALITION CALL

Convention Of Independents To Be Held In Chicago
July 3

By Associated Press
Chicago—National committeemen of the Farmer-Labor party by a mail vote completed Tuesday, authorized the calling of a national convention in Chicago, July 3, when efforts will be made to organize a coalition of all labor, farmer, separate and other independent political groups.

Invitations are to be sent to the Woman's party, League of Women Voters, National Nonpartisan League, Socialist Party, Committee of Forty-Eight, State federations of Labor, all international labor unions, labor parties of various states, and hundreds of other separate organizations asking them to appoint delegates clothed with authority to take such steps as are necessary to bring about a political coalition for the 1924 presidential campaign.

As an instance of the need for unity among the independents, secretary Jay Brown of the Farmer-Labor party cited the last Illinois gubernatorial campaign with nine candidates for governor in addition to the Republican and Democratic tickets.

POPE TRYING TO SAVE PRELATES

By Associated Press
Rome—The Vatican is deeply affected by the death sentences passed upon Archbishop Zepinski and Monsignor Buschavitch in Moscow, and it is understood Pope Pius is exerting his personal influence to save the lives of the two prelates.

Warsaw, Poland—When Premier Sikorski learned that Archbishop Zepinski, head of the Roman Catholic church in Russia and the 16 prelates with him had been found guilty by the Moscow court, he sent for Leonid Obolenski, soviet minister of Poland, and informed him that the Polish government and population observed with anxiety the Soviet attitude toward the Catholic church and the Polish minority.

DEFENSE ALSO TO CALL
EXPERTS IN BOMB CASE
By Associated Press
Wisconsin Rapids—Faced by a web of circumstantial evidence lightly woven together by the expert testimony of handwriting experts, chemists, metallurgists, and language professors, the defense, in the case of John Magnuson, charged with the death of Mrs. Clementine Chapman, planned to beat the state at its own "game" by calling in several of the state's noted handwriting experts and language students.

The prosecution rested its case Monday afternoon, after having cross-examined two chemists, whose testimony was said by the state to be the most damaging and conclusive heard so far. Both of Monday's witnesses firmly declared it was their opinion that Magnuson had made the trigger found in the "juke bomb" which killed Mrs. Chapman.

CONGRESSMAN TYSON,
ALABAMA, NEAR DEATH
Rochester, Minn.—Congressman John R. Tyson, Alabama, who was operated on at a hospital here for tumor last Friday, is not expected to live through the day, his attending physicians announced Tuesday morning. The patient, they said, became unconscious Monday evening and since midnight has been sinking rapidly. His brother and members of his family are at his bedside.

Paris Weeps
For Beloved
Bernhardt

Paris—All France mourns Tuesday for her well beloved daughter, Sarah Bernhardt, is dead.

Paris is stunned, scarcely believing that she who was regarded as almost immortal in more than one sense of the word has passed away. It seems not too much to say that not since the death of Victor Hugo has France been stirred so deeply.

As the Academician De Piers observes in Figaro, Bernhardt probably shares with Hugo and Pasteur the distinction of being the most illustrious person in the last hundred years of French history. "Divine Sarah" was undoubtedly one of the greatest ambassadors of French art and literature who ever lived. It was thus befitting that the public which idolized her and which she in turn held so close to her heart, should have lingered reverently in the soft spring night outside the house in the boulevard Pereire, where she lived for 33 years, sharing the vigil with the family within.

After midnight, when the theaters were closed, came the people of the stage to pay tribute to their illustrious comrade. Among them were Sacha Guitry, the playwright, who had a filial respect for Bernhardt; Cecile Sorel, Rachel Boyer and a host of other stars. Included in the number also was James Hackett, who according to L'Esclair called President Harding requesting him to announce officially to the people of the United States the death of the greatest artist in the world.

Bernhardt lies on her bed covered by the flowers she loved so well. Tall candles burn at either side and at the foot of her couch, and in accordance with French custom, a crucifix and a bowl of holy water stand on a little table nearby.

The family was still too overcome with grief to discuss the funeral arrangements.

It was later arranged that the body should lie in state at the home he was killing at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

The funeral probably will be held at the church of St. Francois Des Sales, but inasmuch as this is "the week of the dead" preceding Easter, there can be no high mass.

Mme. Bernhardt's most valuable personal effects are being taken out of the house by her son Maurice and sent elsewhere for safekeeping.

The chamber in which Bernhardt's body lies is already filled with flowers brought by hundreds of her admirers. Abbey Louril, the great actress' close friend for many years remarked that in death she had "recovered the beauty of her youth."

"Is an expression," he added, "is one of peace."

Sarah's Brother
Isn't Sorry At
News Of Death
McAlester, Okla.—A story that dates back into the mists that obscure the early life of Mme. Sarah Bernhardt is told by old Joseph Bernhardt, who has mended McAlester's stoves and furniture for the last quarter century.

Joseph Bernhardt says the famous actress was his sister. They were estranged many years ago—he tells it—pottering about his little shop Tuesday he vowed he felt no sorrow at the news of the passing of the "Divine Sarah."

The Bernhardts are a strong tempered people, says old Joseph, and he declared he cannot forgive Sarah for her treatment of him as a youth when she could have extended to him a helping hand, but refused.

"She had an opportunity to make something out of me, but she turned me down," the aged Frenchman said with bitterness. "I have no pity, no sorrow."

Joseph Bernhardt told the story of his blood relationship to the famous actress when he came to McAlester 25 years ago and has since remained. Sarah Bernhardt was the second daughter of Pierre Bernhardt, born of his first wife, according to Joseph.

MESSAGE WILL BE PRESENTED
ON WEDNESDAY

Taxes, Highways, Guard, Economy And Prohibition To Be Taken Up

By Associated Press
Madison—Governor Blaine will go before a joint meeting of the houses, of the legislature Wednesday morning with a special message which it is reported upon good authority will be pointed and emphatic exposition of his stand on the tax question, highways, National guard, economy and prohibition.

The governor will carry out his announced intention of laying a definite tax proposal before the legislature. This measure, it became known Tuesday, solves the problem raised by the demand for repeal of the personal property offset to the income tax and provides a more thorough readjustment of rates on individuals and corporations than has heretofore been attempted. This measure will raise $12,600,000 from incomes, transferring $1,000,000 more tax than either the Dahl or Severson bills from real and personal property to incomes, and is so adjusted that the governor believes no person or industry will be unduly burdened.

The governor is reported to ask for a one-man tax commission to take the place of the present three man commission.

WILL MAKE SPECIFIC REPORT
He is expected to supplement his recent special message on the National guard with a specific statement of the amount he believes should be appropriated to that institution. He will probably state that the conclusion of his former message, that the guard can be maintained at an expense of less than $300,000 annually.

REFUSE ADJOURNMENT DATE
Madison—The assembly Tuesday killed Speaker Dahl's joint resolution naming May 18 as sine die adjournment date for the present legislative session. The vote was 44 to 33, with Mr. Dahl voting with the majority.

The Minor joint resolution notifying Governor Blaine that the senate and assembly would hold a joint session at 10:30 o'clock Wednesday morning to hear his message dealing with the taxation problem was unanimously adopted by the legislature Tuesday.

KILL LABOR BILL
The bill by Assemblyman Weber and advocated by labor organizations over the state which limits to eight hours a day the amount of work done on any public building or project, including highways, was killed by the assembly Tuesday, 48 to 32. Passage of the bill had been recommended by the committee on labor. The motion to indefinitely postpone the bill was made by Assemblyman Hefty.

An attempt to prevent lobbying by state officials on the floor of the legislature made in a resolution introduced by Senator Bernard Gettelman, Milwaukee, was killed in the upper house Tuesday without a roll call. The proposal would have barred lobbying officials from the legislative chambers.

Two labor bills, one prohibiting night work in bakeries, the other extending the scope of one day rest in seven law to creameries and cheese factories, were both killed by the Wisconsin senate. These measures were passed by the assembly by large majorities.

TWO WOMEN BURN TO DEATH NEAR DETROIT
By Associated Press
Detroit—Two unidentified women inmates of the county hospital at Elkhart, near here, were burned to death Tuesday in a fire that destroyed a three story brick building used as the women's psychopathic ward.

The charred bodies were found in the ruins. The fire is believed to have started from a tinsmith's torch.

HOLLAND ENVOYS STUDY
U. S. RUM AGENTS IN RAID
New York—Fifteen prohibition agents swooped down on the Blue Hour restaurant in the heart of the theatrical district early Tuesday, ordered the hundreds of diners in evening clothes to leave as quickly as possible and then proceeded to confiscate 75 cases of whisky, champagne, and other liquors.

The raid was witnessed by N. A. Devries, a member of the government of the Province of Groningen, Holland and P. Van Der Meulen of Utrecht, Holland, who are making a study of the prohibition question in the United States.

The above table shows expenditures of the State of Wisconsin, for the five divisions listed for the period from 1912 to 1922, inclusive. In that time the expenditures for these five divisions have increased from $9,000,000 to $34,500,000 in round figures. The most significant thing about this comparative table is the heavy increase for State Boards, Departments and Commissions. In 1912 these Boards, Commissions, etc., cost the taxpayers of Wisconsin less than $5,000,000, while ten years later their cost had mounted to the large sum of more than $20,000,000. This is an increase of more than 400 per cent and it will be noted that in 1922 the cost of these Boards, Commissions, etc., represented approximately 60 per cent of the total disbursements of the five divisions given. Next to Boards and Commissions the heaviest increase is for Penal and Charitable Institutions, while the lowest is for the State University. It is a matter of common history in government that next to Boards and Commissions, Penal and Charitable Institutions offer the largest field for waste and extravagance and it will be seen in the foregoing table that the increase in expenditures for Penal and Charitable purposes in Wisconsin has kept a close second to increases for Boards, Commissions, etc.

11,901 BADGERS ON PENSION LIST FOR WARS OF PAST

Uncle Sam More Liberal In Granting Pleas Of Feeble Veterans

BY BASCOM N. TIMMONS
Washington—Uncle Sam this year will pay out in pensions to veterans of the past wars or their widows, exclusive of the World war, a total of $252,382,671.78. Secretary of Interior Work announced. There are a total of 547,016 pensioners.

Ohio has the greatest number of pensioners, 55,375. Pennsylvania has 52,119 and New York, 47,315. There are in Wisconsin 11,901 pensioners, drawing annually $5,565,270.73. In the northwestern branch at Milwaukee there are 901 pensioners, receiving annually $458,587.32.

Secretary Work, who is making a careful study of the affairs of the pension bureau, which is under his supervision, said that the pension laws are being construed liberally to the benefit of the veterans and widows of soldiers of the Civil and Spanish American wars.

Department decisions made several important modifications in the practice and holdings of the pension bureau while a broad and liberal interpretation has been given the laws with the result that pensionable rights have been conferred upon hundreds of veterans who formerly have been denied pensions through narrow and technical construction of the statutes.

Under the act of May 1, 1920, providing $72 per month for Civil war veterans helpless or blind or so nearly helpless or blind as to require regular personal aid or attention, the pension bureau issued instructions dated May 26, 1920, providing that the $72 rate should be made to commence from the date of certificate of medical examination by a board of surgeons establishing the existence of the requisite condition of disability after the approval of said act.

The department in the Kennedy decision held that the provisions of that act were to the effect that the $72 rate should commence from the date of approval of the act or "when the requisite condition is shown to exist after the approval of the act."

C. OF C. CLOSING UP MEMBER DRIVE TODAY

The clean-up squad of Appleton Chamber of Commerce went out on Tuesday afternoon to make the final solicitations of memberships in order to close the campaign which was conducted here under the direction of the American City bureau. Many people were missed and some decided not to become members when they were approached by the men of the teams during the campaign. The special squad under the direction of the majors of the drive will see these people again.

EAU CLAIRE AWARDS CONTRACT FOR BRIDGE

Stein Construction company of Milwaukee, whose bid of $58,329.50 was lowest on the Law-st bridge, has been awarded the contract for the construction of a bridge over the Chippewa river at Eau Claire. This is the bridge for which the city of Eau Claire received state and county aid last summer. Wausau Iron works, whose bid of $207,767 was lowest on the Cherry-st bridge, has also been awarded several bridge contracts this year, according to information received by Mayor Henry Reuter.

MAYOR AT GREEN BAY FOR FACTS ON BRIDGES

Mayor Henry Reuter spent Monday in Green Bay on official business. He was for some time in conference with Mayor Wiesner of Green Bay on the subject of bridges. The Bay city also has its bridge problems, one of which is the mud bottom for the foundation. Appleton is fortunate in having rock bottom for both the Cherry-st and Law-st bridges, Mayor Reuter said.

LIFETIME AIM IS ACHIEVED BY HEAD OF ST. OLAF CHOIR

Dr. Christiansen's Fame Permeates Entire Group Of Choral Singers

Audiences which hear St. Olaf choir are as much impressed with the leader, Dr. F. Melius Christiansen, as they are with the remarkable choral work of 40 women and 22 men in their singing of great church anthems without accompaniment or tuning fork.

Mr. Christiansen therefore will be the object of much curiosity when the choir sings at Lawrence Memorial chapel at 8:20 next Monday evening under auspices of the Lutheran churches of Appleton.

LEADS BIG CHOIR

DR. F. MELIUS CHRISTIANSEN

This quiet, unassuming choir master was born in Norway. As a boy he attended school in Larvik. He then came to this country when 17 years of age, first to California, then to Washburn, Wisconsin. Later he went to Minneapolis, where he studied and taught at Northwestern Conservatory of Music.
After some years he went to Leipzig, Germany, to study. He gained intimate contact with Gustav Schreck, at that time cantor of the old Thomas church. Here once each week he heard the famous Thomas choir and was inspired to duplicate its work in America.
St. Olaf was organized some years later by him, and now it is the wonder of a continent and its leader is internationally famous. Dr. Christiansen has composed chorals of note and arranged many others.

MOTHER! MOVE CHILD'S BOWELS

"California Fig Syrup" is Child's Best Laxative

Even a sick child loves the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup." If the little stomach is upset, tongue coated, or if your child is cross, feverish, full of cold, or has colic, a teaspoonful will never fail to open the bowels. In a few hours you can see for yourself how thoroughly it works all the constipation poison, sour bile and waste from the tender, little bowels and gives you a well, playful child again.
Millions of mothers keep "California Fig Syrup" handy. They know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup. adv.

"Gloom Chaser" Issued By Sanatorium Patients

A recent project worked out by the patients at Riverview sanatorium is a monthly publication called "The Gloom Chaser." The first paper was issued in December and since that time it has been increasing in size and number of articles. The editor of the paper is Laura M. Peterson, who compiles the material presented by the other patients. Everyone in the building takes an active interest in its appearance and in lending aid in its development.

The Gloom Chaser is crowded with funny things which happen at the "san" and even the nurses and Miss B. L. Boyle, matron of the sanatorium, are generously remembered. One of the funniest sections of the paper is called a "Line O'Bunk or Two" and contains remarks which many times were probably not intended for the ready ears of Gloom-Chaser contributors. But they seem to invariably get in.

Other columns of interest are the want ads which advertise some of the private desires of a few of the patients of which wide awake reporters make good use. Each edition of the paper boasts of a few clever pieces of poetry which add to the literary value of the publication, and also some interesting editorials which contain much real good material.

In the March number of the paper there were a few pictures. One, a view of the sanatorium from across the river, graced the cover. The other was a picture of the dining room dished up for a Valentine party which the Sunshine club gave in honor of the season.

One of the items of most interest is the talks given in the papers by Dr. C. D. Boyd on the value of the sanatorium life to its patients and advice on how to make the most of the privileges offered. The articles are continued from one number of the paper to the next, and are as valuable from the standpoint of the disinterested person as from that of the patient at the sanatorium.

VOTERS HEAR TALKS ON WATERWORKS

Fred R. Morris Explains Appleton Experience To Little Chute People

A large crowd of Little Chute residents attended the mass meeting in the Movie Palace of Little Chute Monday evening to hear a discussion on the advisability of the village bonding itself for $120,000 with which to install municipal waterworks.

Fred R. Morris, in charge of the Appleton water department office in the city hall, gave an address outlining the history of the Appleton water works and relating how many of the peculiar problems of municipal waterworks are solved. He commended the village's plan of initial main in stations and advised the people to cut down the initial pumping equipment rather than decrease the size of the mains.

Anton Jansen, president of Little Chute, also gave an address in which he recounted some of the things accomplished in the village during his administration and defended himself on progressive movements for which he had been criticized.

Another mass meeting will be held in the village Thursday evening, when a representative of the Wisconsin Industrial commission will give a talk on adequate fire protection.

SUFFERED WITH ECZEMA 6 YEARS

In Blisters On Face, Arms and Neck. Cuticura Heals.

"I suffered with eczema for six years. It broke out in water blisters, then a regular rash, and my face, arms and neck were affected. The itching and burning were very severe, and I scratched and irritated the affected parts so badly that I could not stand my clothes to touch them. I got very little sleep for months.
"My doctor advised me to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment, which I did. They helped me so I continued using them, and in three months I was healed." (Signed) Mrs. I. F. Wager, Honey Creek, Iowa.

Swiss Resident Transfers "Y" Card To City

The advantages afforded the holder of a Y. M. C. A. membership card in a foreign land was demonstrated in the office of the Y. M. C. A. Monday. The morning mail included a card from the world committee of the Y. M. C. A. at Lausanne, Switzerland, which informed those in charge that there was on his way to Appleton Fritz Kadura, a member of the Y. M. C. A. of Germany.

The card served as a letter of introduction and also instructed the officials of the local institution to transfer his membership to Appleton.

One of the Y. M. C. A. secretaries called up the family designated on the card, L. Marugg, 329 North-st., to find out when he was expected and learned he had just arrived. The secretary

No more could be asked of a musical comedy than was given in "Up in the Clouds" which played at the Parkway Friday night and is being repeated this afternoon and tonight.

"Up in the Clouds" is not only amuseful play with pleasing lyrics, a good chorus, excellent leading characters, and entertaining and original plot, all of which contribute to a very enjoyable evening, but it also offers the aesthetic and beautiful in a number of very unusual dances.

The plot is an ingenious one revolving around the aspirations of the "fendish" son of a captain of industry to place "lofty" ideas from "up in the clouds" on a silver sheet of the movie world. The son succeeds in obtaining a director, camera man, and large number of friends to produce his play. Father produces the opposition and thereupon hangs the action.

The scenes supposed to be laid in the picture play furnish settings for a large number of elaborate dances which received the enthusiastic applause of the audience at their presentation Friday night. Two solo dancers, Ladru Stiffler and Cecile D'Andrea, gave several difficult feature dances which were presented by them with super-professional execution. Their part in the play afforded the unusual in the musical comedy offering.

Most amusing humor was given by Jack Sheehan as "Bud" the camera man, and Gertrude O'Connor as "Ruby Airdale, the faded society bud" of movie ambition. These two furnished spontaneous fun throughout the play and did burlesque dances of the duo professionals with perfect comedy. "Ruby"—in a must put it on with a shoe horn dress—offered a figure profile not unlike a question mark and acted accordingly.

Other characters also did their parts well making of a good play one of the best of the season at the Parkway.

DOOR COUNTY FRUIT GROWERS PROTEST

The Fruit Growers of Door county are greatly exercised over a bill in the legislature introduced by Assemblyman Sachjen, known as Bill 242A, one of the provisions of which would prevent school children from picking cherries. The protest of the fruit growers is well taken, although there is no reason why they should be surprised at the introduction of such a bill, or indeed, at its passage. The farmers of Wisconsin have helped to send to Madison a legislature bent upon abolishing farmers' institutes, prohibiting drainage projects and land-clearing demonstrations, putting into effect the eight-hour day on the farm, crippling the activities of the college of agriculture at Madison and passing other laws for the burdening of the farm industry. It is entirely consistent with the record of this legislature thus far to pass a bill forbidding fruit growers of Door county to employ school boys and girls to pick cherries.

Hardly a man who reads this editorial does not recall working in his boyhood days to earn a few extra dollars, particularly during his vacation period. Not one who recalls this experience will say that these light jobs, which perhaps taught him his first lesson in self-reliance and thrift, did him a particle of harm. On the contrary, it was a valuable training, and very often it was the beginning of a successful business career.

The school boys and girls who go to Door county to pick cherries work under wholesome conditions. Last year the boys were under the supervision of the Y. M. C. A. all the time they were there and the girls under the care of the Y. W. C. A. Both received excellent treatment and protection. They were under constant discipline, were well housed in specially built buildings provided with modern sanitation, received medical attention, and were quite as well off as if they had been in their own homes. In fact, many of them were much better off than they would have been at home roaming the streets and spending their time at dance halls and in idleness. Their work was healthful, pleasant and remunerative. They lived an outdoor life, perfectly normal in every way. Many school boys and girls have gone to Door county for years to pick cherries and we are sure that practically every one of them has enjoyed the experience, and has treated it much as an outing.

The politicians have laid stress upon the need for cooperative marketing and the legislature has pretended to favor its development. The Door County Fruit Growers association is probably the best example of cooperative marketing yet perfected in Wisconsin. Their organization has done a great deal to stabilize the industry and to make it profitable. Comes now the legislature with a proposal to prevent this association from employing boys and girls of school age to pick cherries. It is a new and novel way to promote cooperative marketing.

However, the economic theories of the assemblymen at Madison have no taste for this "grinding down of child labor." It is contrary to the teaching of the "third internationale," or some similar doctrine. Young men and young women must not work until they can do a full day's work and receive therefor the full man's wage. They must run wild and follow their own devices in loitering and very often in dissipation. Perhaps the fruit growers and farmers of Wisconsin have not understood some of these things heretofore, but they are being speedily educated. In due time they will come to appreciate the beauties of the political alliance they were led into forming in the last campaign.

GAMBLING IN STOCKS

It is generally believed that the men who keep their eyes riveted on the tickers in the metropolitan brokerage houses are the smartest financiers in the world. The belief remains current, notwithstanding professional gamblers are caught in their own traps a few times every year. As a matter of fact, they are caught in minor deals quite often in the course of a year.

In the Piggly-Wiggly maneuver the professional gamblers tried to play a game in which the owner of the game was better informed than they. They were familiar with the routine plays, yet, as usual, were wrong in their strategy and calculations.

Regular market manipulators trade in stocks not as investors, but as speculators. They buy and sell in order to make profits quickly. For their purposes the stock of a grocery store is just as serviceable as that of a steamship company.

Professional traders are not shrewd, because their vision is narrow. They see no farther than the tape quotations, forecast to the next day. Rumors interest and frequently deceive them. Their decisions do not result from deep knowledge, accurate judgment or clear foresight. They are ordinary gamblers.

THE SUGAR GOUGE

A controversy has arisen between Secretary of Commerce Hoover and Basil M. Manley, director of the People's Legislative service over responsibility for the present excessive price of sugar. Mr. Manley lays the blame for the speculative market which sent the price soaring in spite of the fact that there is a world's oversupply, to the secretary of commerce. Mr. Hoover says the interpretation placed on a bulletin issued by his department in the usual routine and without his knowledge, although with his full approval, was erroneous. A press association that heralded the bulletin misconstrued it, and the result was a bullish movement that has not yet been stopped in spite of the fact that the department has issued repeated statements to the effect that there was plenty of sugar and would not be a shortage.

The dispute between Mr. Hoover and Mr. Manley is of course incidental to the main fact that the public is being gouged out of millions of dollars in its sugar bill. It is estimated that it has already been gouged $15,000,000 by price advances of three or four cents. All of this money goes to sugar gamblers and profiteers. It is the duty of the government to fix the responsibility for this outrage and if possible to punish the guilty. The government may be handicapped because of the fact that legislation enacted during the war to give it more direct control over profiteering and speculation has been repealed by congress. Nevertheless, there ought to be ground on which the department of justice can act.

The present price of ten and eleven cents for sugar is absolutely without excuse. Any increase whatsoever in the price, as compared with the price of eight weeks ago, is without justification. Government reports show that the world's production of sugar for the year will be in excess of consumption by a comfortable margin.

The incident serves to call attention to the fact that forces are constantly at work to influence artificially the sugar market. While the tariff bill was pending last year, the charge was freely made, and correspondence produced to prove it, that deals were attempted between the high tariff advocates of this country, Mr. Smoot in particular, and the cane sugar interests of Cuba, to limit the Cuban crop in order to increase prices received not only by Cuban producers but by the beet sugar interests of the United States. When the deal fell through and the Cuban growers refused to limit production an excessive tariff was clapped on in retaliation.

Doubtless Mr. Manley's insistence that the situation calls for a grand jury investigation and the most vigorous action by the department of justice is well taken. There ought to be some way to protect the American people against gouges that rob them of millions of dollars for the benefit of speculators and profiteers. If there is not it is time the country knew it so that steps can be taken to see that it does not occur again.

OLD DOC SALVE

This is the last of a series of articles describing the things in the medicine cupboard and how or why to use them. At the outset I warned readers that we could supply no copies of these articles; nevertheless the number of requests for back copies seems to increase as the square of the number of articles in the series. Those who have not preserved all the articles in the old scrapbook may call in a good doctor. I consider I have done my full duty, and maybe spilled the beans. This is a practical home doctor book, in installments, for nothing down and nothing a week. It will take some time to learn whether I have spilled the beans.

The Old Doc Salve I suggest for the medicine cupboard is no invention of mine. I frankly confess, indeed, I'll go further and make a clean breast of it. I got it. I blushed to say, from a traveling drug drummer, one of those men who visit doctors at regular intervals. The drummer enjoyed the distinction of being the only one of his tribe that ever could get within telling distance of me. Jokingly he left a sample of the salve, and although I assured him it was a waste of the material, it so happened that grandma cut her finger or something—and well, one thing and another compelled me to get more of that salve.

First one of my rich relations would discover that it was the most wonderful thing for sunburn or mosquito bites or hives and then one of my poor patients would remark that he had never seen anything heal so fast and take the fire out of 'em like that old doctor's salve. Where the man got the idea that it was an old doctor's salve, I don't know, but we'll call it that.

Old Doc Salve

Zinc oxide30 grains
Boric acid20 grains
Benzoin10 grains
Oil of rosemary5 drops
Lanolinone ounce
Petrolatum enough to make one tube.
(Preferably kept in a collapsible tube.)
Of course this salve doesn't "heal" anything. No salve does. But it does save you money and keep you out of mischief while healing is going forward. And that's why I have given you this medicine cupboard.

How Do Birds Guide Selves On Journeys?

New York—How is it that a bird hatched and brought up in one part of the United States in one spring or summer will, in the autumn, fly to Cuba or the southernmost of the West Indies, or Central America or South America, and then fly back next spring to the place of its birth?

Not only does one bird do this, but millions of birds or more than 300 species do it, year after year. The wisest ornithologists, or bird scientists, cannot give you the answer. They can speculate, reason, assume, but that is all.

The favorite theory is that birds have a sense, called the sense of direction, that man has not. It is, say the ornithologists, the only possible explanation that a man can think of, but there may be an explanation that a man can not think of. It is probable that the scientists have hit on "sense of direction" because there is such a sense, partly developed, in some men.

Some men have certain things to aid them in that they can tell north and south by the sun, shadows, stars and moon, or by the bark or mold on trees, moss or lichens on rocks, the course of streams and other signs. It is said of some men that on a dark night, of the foggiest day they can travel zigzag, or in spirals or curves and find their way to the point of beginning, but that is not proved. But birds do this and they do not often fail.

RETURN TO HOME EVERY YEAR

The late Welles W. Cooke, for many years a member of the United States biological survey at Washington, was intensely interested in this matter, and he knew all that is known, and perhaps all that will ever be known about it.

He asked many of the famous ornithologists, "How do migrating birds find their way?" They do not journey haphazard for the familiar inhabitants of our dooryard making boxes will return next year to these same boxes, though meanwhile they have visited Brazil. If the entire distance were made overland, it might be supposed that sight and memory were the only faculties exercised.

But for those birds that cross the Gulf of Mexico and more especially the golden plover and its ocean crossing kindred sometimes more, than sight is necessary. Among day migrants, sight probably is the principal guide, but these seldom make the long flights so common with night migrants.

Sight, said Dr. Cooke, plays a part in guiding the night journeys also. On clear nights, especially when the moon shines brightly, migrating birds fly high and the eye can scarcely distinguish their twittering; it clouds over and the sky the flocks pass nearer the earth and their notes are much more audible, and on very dark nights the flutter of their wings may be heard but a few feet overhead. Nevertheless, something besides sight guides these travelers in the air.

In Alaska a few years ago members of the biological survey went by steamer from the island of Unalaska to Bogoslof Island, a distance of about 60 miles. A dense fog shut out every object beyond a hundred yards. When the steamer was half way across flocks of murres, returning to Bogoslof island after long quests for food, began to break through the

The Question Box

Q. What will remove the crust that has formed on the inside of our heater? P. S. F.

A. The Bureau of Mines says that it may be possible to loosen the crust by throwing a pound of table salt or a piece of old zinc on a roaring hot fire. If this does not do it, it will be necessary to scrape it off.

Q. Did Marshal Joffre lose an arm in the War? C. P. L.

A. Marshal Joffre has not lost an arm. The noted French General who has only one arm is General Paul M. C. G. Pau. On August 6, 1870, during the Franco-Prussian War, he was wounded by the explosion of a shell in the Battle of Froeschwiller, as a result of which his right arm had to be amputated.

Q. What is the value of the gold German mark and the paper German mark? N. R.

A. German gold marks are issued in 5, 10, and 20 mark pieces. Since the value of gold is fixed by international agreement, gold marks would be worth their weight in gold, which is practically their face value. The gold mark's face value is $23.21 cents. The paper money fluctuates and a late quotation was .0027 cents.

Q. Did Nathaniel Hawthorne change the spelling of his name? S. T. L.

A. He added the "n" to the original form of his surname—Hathorne.

Q. How many children did John and Priscilla Alden have? G. P. O.

A. This famous couple had eleven offspring.

Q. How did the Indians make blankets from rabbit skins? S. B.

A. They cut skin in narrow strips and wound it spirally around a cord. When sufficient length of cord was on hand they ran it backward and forward the length of the blanket required and twined the cord together with string, forming the width of the blanket this way.

Q. Where is the coal mine which has been burning for a number of years? M. C. B.

A. The Bureau of Mines says that the Summit Hill Coal Mine at Summit Hill near Mauch Chunk, Pennsylvania, has been burning since 1862.

Q. For what was New Jersey named? W. J. W.

A. New Jersey was named in honor of Sir George Carteret, one of the original grantees of the colony, who had previously been Governor of the island of Jersey in the English channel.

Q. What is the derivation of the word dun used in connection with insisting that a person pay a debt? L. E. E.

A. Authorities are of the opinion that the word "dun" used in reference to the collection of debts is derived from the Middle English word "dunnen" meaning "to make a loud noise."

Q. Was Peer Gynt a real person? T. E. N.

A. He was a real character of the Jutunheimen Mountains—a trapper famed for his wild and reckless exploits.

Q. How much of the lumber used goes into crates and boxes? F. R. K.

A. The Forest Service says that approximately 16 per cent of our lumber is used in the form of crates and boxes.

REFERENDUM ELECTION

Editor, Post-Crescent: I have a little suggestion to make on the Cherry-st bridge project. The promoters of it say they want the bridge where it will do the most good to the greatest number of people. In that case "why not make it a Toll Bridge?" and have the people pay for it, instead of the burden falling on the tax payers, many of whom will never receive any benefit from it. I live on highway 15 and during the year there are thousands of cars from all parts of the country pass over the bridge, in a few years as a Toll-bridge it would be paid for.

I know the people from the South Side would willingly pay their share, whenever they found it necessary to use the bridge.

But as a general thing I think they would find it more convenient to put on a little more speed and climb the old hills as usual.

Yours for a better Appleton.

A South Side Resident.

CAPITOL JOKES

BY ALBERT JOHNSON

U. S. Representative from Washington, Third District

I was during a hot fight in Congress over certain western land laws. The western congressmen had formed what now we'd call a "bloc" and were making a tremendous to-do in their efforts to get these laws modified more to their liking.

Joe Cannon, in the course of the debate, rose and said:

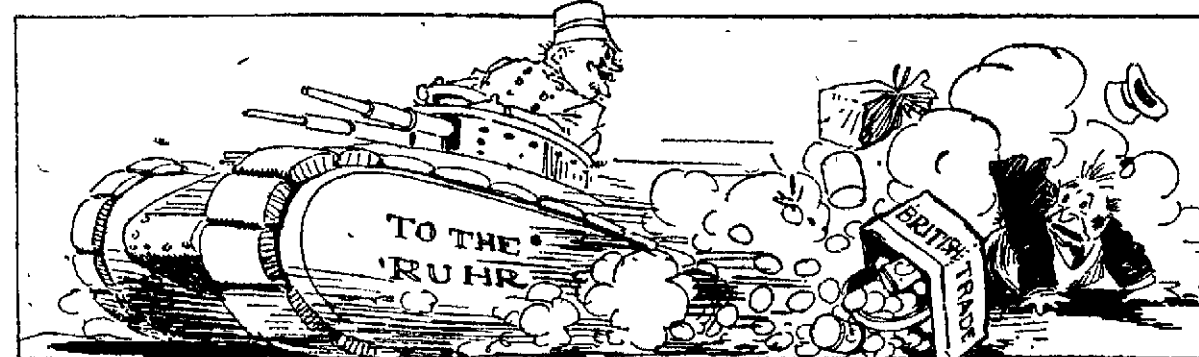

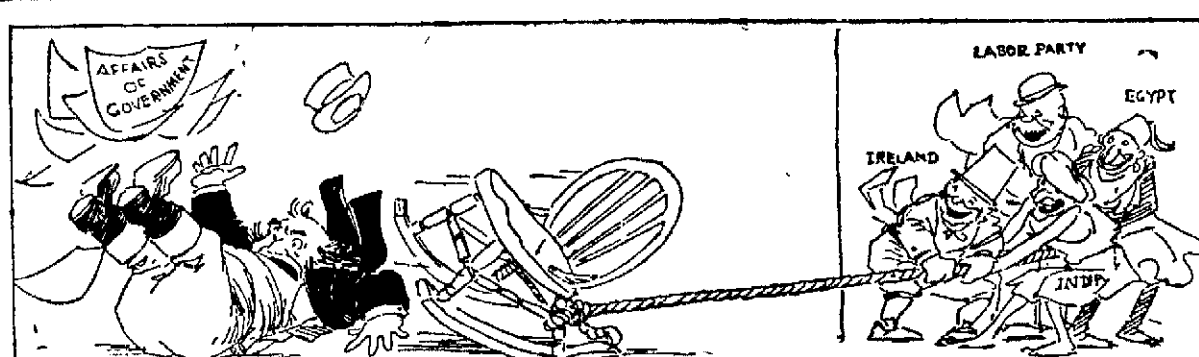

"I've heard a lot of sound and fury in my time, but the most impressive sound in my experience is the sound of a little bunch of western congressmen making a noise like a majority."

Arabia Is Last World Frontier

(E. Alexander Powell in the World's Work.)

It is a curious circumstance, when you pause to consider it, that Arabia, whose shores are skirted almost daily for upward of two thousand miles by tourist laden steamers, which can be reached by airplane from Cairo between breakfast and luncheon of a single day, the Western world has less knowledge than it has of inner Asia or equatorial Africa, or the Polar regions. Though in area the peninsula is one-third the size of the United States, the Europeans who have penetrated its mysterious interior can be numbered on the fingers of one's two hands. Sadler, Palgrave, Burton, Pelly, Doughty, Lawrence, Leachman, Philby, and two women, Lady Anne Blunt (the granddaughter of Lord Byron) and Miss Gertrude Bell—there you have nearly all, or nearly all, of the names that comprise the brief, intrepid list. It is the only land which has successfully defied the white man and halted the onswep of civilization, the lives and customs of its 10 million inhabitants having remained virtually unchanged since the world was young. It is the sole remaining country on the map considerable areas of which are still marked "unexplored." It is the last frontier.

Six Artist Numbers On New Course

Rosebush Re-elected President Of Community Series At Meeting

That the Community Lecture and Artist series will include not more than six numbers next year was decided at the meeting of the executive committee at the Conway hotel on Monday evening. Judson C. Rosebush was elected president of the course. Dr. Samuel Plantz, vice president, A. R. Eads, secretary, and George Beckley, manager. Mr. Beckley wished to resign as manager of the course, but his resignation was not accepted. The reports showed that the course this year had left a deficit of something more than $1,800. When the college withdrew its charges for rent and care of the chapel during the course and one member gave 1,000 toward the deficit, there was left only a little more than $600 to be raised in the community. Approximately $5,000 was spent for talent for the course this year and at every opportunity expenses were cut to the minimum. Committees for the course will be appointed in the near future by the president. The planning of the course will be left entirely to program committee, which was given power to fix the number and nature of the programs.

So much importance is attached to the buying of Easter clothes for the family that the family forgets that the Home needs some "Dressing up" along about this time too.

There are so many social events that take place—family reunions, children home from college—there's always some special occasion in the home.

Wouldn't some new colorful chintz Drapes cheer up the living room? Perhaps there's need of an extra bed; a table to add or some new Wicker furniture for the sun room.

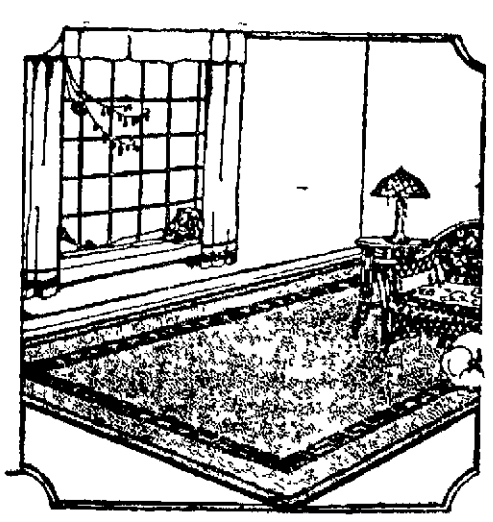

Why not buy the Home some Easter clothes, and enjoy Easter indoors as well as out doors?

Summer Furniture For All Seasons

THOUGH Wicker and Reed furniture is often-times referred to as Summer furniture, one gets just as much if not more pleasure out of it during the other seasons of the year. In hot summer it has a cooling effect; in bleak winter a cheerful gladsome effect.

In selecting this kind of furniture you're getting good looks and economy combined. Quality which results in good looks very often results in long wear. You'll find that to be the case with this Summer Furniture. Prices are moderate.

Light Weight Rugs At Moderate Prices

WE were extremely fortunate in buying these Rugs now. You're getting them at a very moderate cost and you'll be saving your good Rugs by taking them up now.

The assortment featured at this time is extensive as to size, color and patterns. Later on, the selection will very likely be less favorable. Included too are hand braided Rag Rugs, in oval and round shapes.

CHARLES EICH DIES WHILE CONVERSING

End Comes Suddenly To One Of Earliest Residents Of County

Special to Post-Crescent
Seymour — Death came suddenly here about 11 o'clock Monday morning to Charles Eich, 80, one of the early settlers in this locality. Mr. Eich was seated in a chair conversing with his wife, his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Richard Eich, and Ferdinand Ashman a neighbor. He made a pleasant remark and when he said nothing further the others looked at him and found that he sat there dead. Mr. Eich had been in poor health for some time and had suffered with asthma. This is believed to have caused his end.

Funeral arrangements have not been made and are dependent on the arrival of distant relatives. The deceased was born in Pomerania, Germany, May 4, 1842 and came to America in 1868. He spent four weeks in Chicago, then bought 40 acres of land in town of Osborn. He cleared this land and then purchased an additional 40-acre tract. This farm three miles south of Seymour now is owned by George and Philip Eich, two of his sons.

Mr. Eich was married in October, 1874, to Oshkosh, to Miss Bertha Krueger. The couple lived on the farm for 40 years and retired about ten years ago, moving to their present residence here. The deceased was a member of the German Evangelical church for more than 50 years.

Mr. Eich is survived by his widow, seven children, Herman, Richard, Walter, George and Philip, Seymour, Mrs. Henry Lutus, Greenleaf, Mrs. Cora Kolth, Pottsville, one brother, August, Eich, Portland, Oregon; 27 grandchildren and one great grandchild. One daughter, Mrs. Paul Hiesler, preceded him in death.

TOWN OF OSBORN PICKS OFFICERS

Seymour—Town of Osborn nominated the following candidates Saturday at the annual caucus at the town hall. Supervisors, Albert Rung and Emil Kleist; clerk, Arnold Meisner; assessor, Sidney Sherman; treasurer, Phillip Eich. Emil Kleist will take the place of August Peotter, present supervisor. The term of Charles Sivert does not expire this year.

HOME FROM HOSPITAL
Mrs. Theodore Van Derheiden, who has been sick at St. Vincent hospital, Green Bay, for a period of eight weeks, was able to return home Saturday.

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Congregational church will hold its session Thursday at the home of Mrs. S. B. Welles.

An Easter sale and cafeteria supper are to be given at the Methodist church Tuesday night, March 27, by the Ladies Aid society.

The egg roll which was to take place at the Methodist Sunday school April 1, has been postponed for two weeks on account of bad roads.

WIN DEBATE
The debate given Sunday night by the Epworth League was won by the affirmative team 2 to 1 on points; question, "Resolved, that the world is growing better."

Mrs. Paul Barnitzke returned home Saturday after visiting relatives at Green Bay.

Norman Brauer, buttermaker employed by Valley Dairy Products Co. of Appleton, spent the weekend with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Brauer.

Milton Luedtke is learning the barber trade at Frazer and Hanson parlors.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stelmacher are both sick with colds.

Miss Lorraine Timmers of Green Bay spent the weekend at home with Mrs. Gary Timmers.

OVERHAUL CREAMERY
The Seymour creamery recently purchased by Kiehlmeier Brothers is being overhauled and machinery arranged at the plant so the company can be ready to do business as soon as the Fairmont Creamery company moves out, which will be two weeks from now.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Dobratz have returned home after several weeks spent at Milwaukee.

Arthur Mickel of Oshkosh visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Mickel.

Fred Muehl of Antigo and George Muehl of DePere, spent several days with friends here and assisted at the auction sale of Henry Muehl estate, March 22.

Julius Simpson has returned home from Tigerton where he was employed.

Mrs. Peter Tubbs and Miss Eleanor Tubbs returned home Saturday from a ten weeks' trip in Texas and Arkansas where they visited relatives. Miss Eleanor returned to her work in the Seymour postoffice as clerk Monday.

BURY FRANK LEHMAN AT BEAR CREEK CEMETERY

Bear Creek—Funeral services were held at 10:30 Monday morning at St. Mary church for Frank Lehman, 26, who died at Appleton Friday. The Rev. MORE CANDIDATES SEEKING OFFICE

Nearly Every Office In Kaukauna Has Two Or More Aspirants

Kaukauna—A few more candidates for municipal offices have entered the race since the last list of candidates was published. Present justices of the peace N. D. Schwin on the north side and Hugh J. Mulholland on the south side have filed nomination papers. The same is true of Alderman H. Q. Wittman in the Fifth ward and Fred T. Wiggers in the Third ward. In the First ward incumbent Oswald Berndt will be opposed by Frank A. Kern and Ernest Modi. John Esler will oppose Alderman W. H. Cooper for the two year term in the Second ward. Due to the removal of Otto G. Tass from the Second ward and his consequent retirement from the council, there will be a vacancy to be filled by a candidate for a term of one year. Otto M. Ludtke, Frank Mitohka and John M. Wheaton have been nominated for that office.

Incumbent John T. Timmers will run for reelection as alderman in the Fourth ward. He will be opposed by William Doering. Four candidates have entered the race to fill three vacancies on the school commission. Louis F. Nelson, Mrs. Mary Regentus and Edward Grebe whose terms of one year expire, have been renominated. Elizabeth Swarthout, former teacher and principal of Park school, is the fourth candidate for a place on the board of education. Last Thursday was the last day for filing nomination papers.

MRS. ANNA DOBER DEAD

The Best Cough Syrup is Home-made.
Here's an easy way to save $2, and yet have the best cough remedy you ever tried.

You've probably heard of this well-known plan of making cough syrup at home. But have you ever used it? Thousands of families, the world over, feel that they could hardly keep house without it. It's simple and cheap, but the way it takes hold of a cough will soon earn it a permanent place in your home.

Into a pint bottle, pour 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to fill up the pint. Or, if desired, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, never spoils, and gives you a full pint of better cough remedy than you could buy ready-made for three times its cost.

It is really wonderful how quickly this home-made remedy conquers a cough—usually in 24 hours or less. It seems to penetrate through every air passage, loosens a dry, hoarse or tight cough, lifts the phlegm, heals the membranes, and gives almost immediate relief. Splendid for throat tickle, hoarseness, croup, bronchitis and childhood asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations for throat and chest ailments. To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

TRUST COMPANY MOVES INTO NEW OFFICE QUARTERS

Larger Building West Of Bank
Has Attractively Arranged
Interior

The First Trust Company of Appleton moved into its new home immediately west of the First National bank building Monday, but it will be some time before the company is settled as many of the new fixtures have not arrived. It is the second time the company has moved during the three years of its existence, each time into more commodious quarters.

Besides regular patrons who were there on business the company had many visitors on the opening day from Appleton and surrounding country, who called on the officers to extend their congratulations. Immense bouquets of flowers constituted the decorations.

OFFICES CONVENIENT
The interior woodwork is finished in mahogany and the arrangement of offices and inclosures is such as to offer patrons the greatest convenience and privacy in the disposal of their business. A new feature is a library and reference room for the use of patrons. It is easy of access for information on all financial matters.

The office of C. S. Dickinson, president, is located in front and immediately back of it is that of H. W. Tuttle, secretary. He is provided with a private consulting room. The third inclosure is that of E. E. Sager, assistant secretary and assistant treasurer and Wilbur S. Grant, bookkeeper.

HAS BIG VAULT
The coupon and trust department is in the rear and is in charge of Mabel E. Rain, Eleanor Pingel and Emma H. Moll. Back of this department is a Mosler vault with a 15-inch door, one of the heaviest in the state outside of Milwaukee. More than 400 safety boxes have been installed which will be rented to patrons. In order to gain entrance to the vault, the renter of a safety box is required to sign an entry ticket which is stamped and filed. The stamp shows the date and the hour of the day.

Besides the main entrance on College-ave, the company has two entrances leading from the First National bank adjoining, one near the front and the other near the rear. The reference library room is located near the former bank entrance and is accessible to bank patrons.

HARDING TO TAKE UP COST OF LIVING AS ISSUE

set, he gave as the object of his administration. This would make the 1923 issue something like this:

"Has the country returned to normalcy, and if not has it progressed sufficiently along the road to warrant a change or a continuance of the same leader?"

The Democrats would take up the challenge naturally by pointing to the higher level of wages in the years of the Wilson administration as compared to the incomes of the workers in the last three years. To offset this, the Harding administration would attempt to prove that there has been a drop in the cost of living.

WAR ON OIL MEN

Both Senator LaFollette of Wisconsin and Senator Ladd of North Dakota have already begun on economic questions, the one charging that the price of gasoline will rise through illegal combination of the producers and the other contending that the price of sugar is soaring unnecessarily. Secretary Hoover is alive to the dangers of excessive oil and sugar prices and Attorney General Daugherty is keeping a watchful eye on the probable prices of coal under the arrangements to be in effect next year between miners and operators.

It looks truly as if the high cost of living which played such a prominent part in sweeping the Democrats into power in the house of representatives in the midst of the war through illegal combination which helped considerably in putting the Democratic party in power in the white house as well as both branches of congress in 1912 will be in the foreground once more in 1924. The Republican orators will exhort the people "to sit steady in the boat and don't rock it" while the Democrats will endeavor to tempt the electorate by detailed reminiscence of "the good old days of 1918 and 1919 under Democratic rule."

Greenville Farmers In Unique Battle Against Bovine Tuberculosis

Not Waiting For State To Act,
Dairymen Tested 10,000 Animals
Affected Ones—Will Sell
Pure Cheese

BY W. F. WINSEY

The eradication of tuberculosis from the dairy herds of Greenville on the initiative and at the expense for testing of the owners themselves, is considered by consumers of dairy products as a movement without parallel in the history of dairying in this state and worthy of the choicest ribbons, bouquets and medals of public approval and good will. For its progressiveness, underlying humanitarianism and far-reaching effects upon the public health, it is unique and has never been equaled in any other part of the United States.

Prior to the time last summer when the movement to clean up the dairy herds in Greenville began to assume general proportions, 20 of the big dairymen in that town were the proud owners of certified herds. With these herds before them as ideals, the smaller dairymen with less money to risk but with ambition equal to that of the big fellows began estimating the cost and advantages of applying the tuberculin test to their own herds without waiting to start the slow, cumbersome state machinery to obtain state assistance.

To start the thing going, a certain young farmer, having observed strange, suspicious symptoms among several cattle of his herd, called to his assistance, T. L. Knapstein, local veterinarian, to apply the tuberculin test. These men found what they were looking for and announced the result to the next neighbor. He too wanted any diseased animal on his farm spotted and removed. All the near-at-hand farmers began to line up in favor of the movement thus started. Tuberculosis was discussed wherever two or more farmers met, at country stores, cheese factories, points and church grounds, shipping points and Equity meetings. The movement yet in its infancy soon grew to wide proportions. Very few agreed at the beginning but soon nobody was found to argue against certified herds dairy cattle. The last objections and skeptics were converted at farmers' picnics where several of the better reactors found were slaughtered and dissected and the diseased tissues of the animals were pointed out by Dr. Knapstein.

TESTED MANY

Before the work of Dr. Knapstein was completed for the season, he had eliminated 400 reactors and tagged 10,000 animals as free from tuberculosis in and near Greenville, equal to 80 per cent. of the entire number. The owners of condemned animals were indemnified in full or part by the state. The owners of 200 more herds are now waiting to have their herds tested. The reason for the delay is that the indemnity funds of the state have been exhausted.

After the legal requirements for certified herds have been met by the dairymen of Greenville and vicinity, the product of the cheese factories will be standardized and guaranteed pure and free from tuberculin germs and marketed under a registered brand of trademark. One form of the trademark is for use on the certificate of the factory, another is to be displayed for advertising where the cheese is retailed and the cheese is to be stamped with another before leaving the factory.

Dr. Knapstein filed an application for the registration of a trade-mark for the use of Greenville factories on Sept. 23 with the commissioner of patents, Washington, D. C. Publication of the trade-mark will be made in the Official Gazette of Mar. 27, 1923. If no notice of objection is filed and sustained within 30 days after publication, a certificate of registration will be issued.

GUARANTEE PURITY

The following words appear on the trademark submitted for registration: Guaranteed Product, Purity Cheese, From Tuberculin Tested Cattle.

Of this movement to eradicate tuberculosis from the dairy herds of Greenville and vicinity, Dr. C. A. Harper of the state board of health writes Dr. Knapstein as follows: "My attention has been called to the manufacture of a purity cheese certified as being manufactured from milk obtained from tuberculin free dairy herds."

"I desire to highly commend you in the development of this activity free dairy herds will undoubtedly be in great demand for general consumption. It marks another step forward in the process of eliminating tuberculosis from the dairy herds and thereby a great factor in eliminating tuberculosis from the human family."

"I am in hearty accord with your project and certainly hope that your activity will eventually cover the entire state of Wisconsin."

HOLY LAND LACKS FERTILE SOIL, U. S. OBSERVER FINDS

Many Difficulties Facing Jews
Seeking National Home
In Palestine

Special To Post-Crescent.
Jerusalem—Addison E. Southard, American consul here, has just completed an exhaustive survey of the commercial and agricultural resources of Palestine. He has also investigated the subjects of port development, hydro-electric resources, irrigation and banking. In view of the optimistic reports issued by those seeking to make the Jewish national home in Palestine a success, it is interesting to note that the American consul entertains serious doubts regarding the agricultural and industrial resources of the country.

"Approximately one-third of the area of Palestine proper," says he, "or roughly 3,000 square miles, is barren land capable of little, if any, agricultural development. Fully an additional fifth of the total area, or more than 3,000,000 acres, has definite agricultural possibilities; but irrigation and other more or less expensive requirements will considerably prejudice the profits to be obtained from farming. The country is sparsely settled, and much of the land has been left fallow for centuries. At the present time the estimated area under cultivation in all Palestine amounts to fewer than 1,000,000 acres."

American business men who recently visited Palestine have found confirmation of Mr. Southard's observations in the great stretches of rocky and barren land. Only in the broader valleys and plains is it at all fertile, and the Arabs, who form 85 per cent of the population, have a difficult time eking out an existence. It can hardly be expected, therefore, these American travelers believe, that the Jews of the world will be attracted to the so-called "National Home" set up in the Holy Land by Great Britain.

The number of Hebrews who have come to settle here from the United States and other countries is relatively small. Of the 700,000 population of Palestine, only 11 per cent is Jewish. Those particular cultivators, which Hebrews throughout all times have shown an especial predilection—clothing manufacture, merchandising, banking and money-changing—are singularly lacking in the Holy Land. Industrial activity is almost negligible. Fruit-growing and souvenir-making are the principal pursuits.

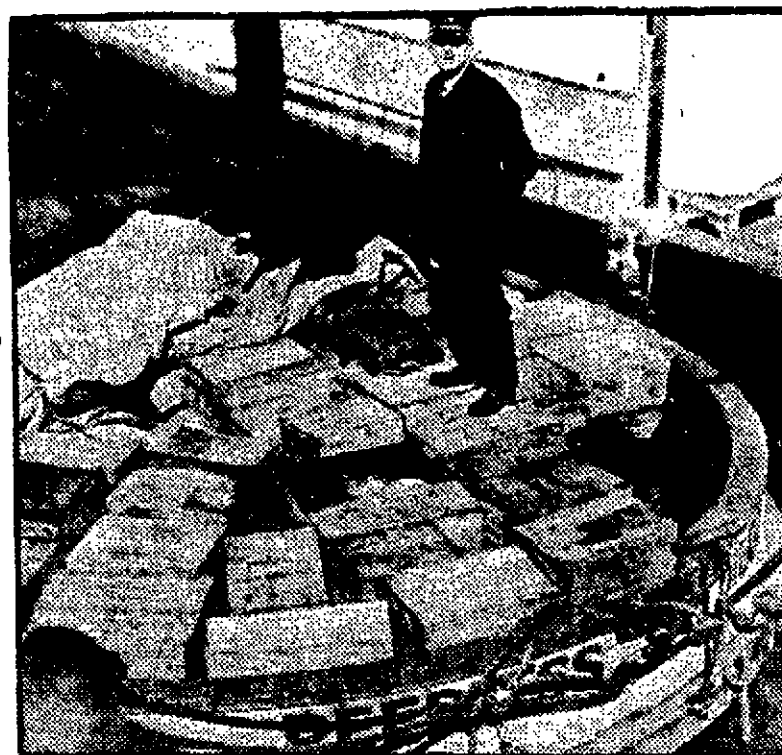

Most of the Jews who have left America for what they believed to be "The Promised Land" have found life in Palestine difficult and expensive. Many of them have engaged in small farming and fruit culture. Others have set up small retail stores in Jaffa, Haifa and other large towns. The main streets of Jerusalem and Jaffa now resemble busy retail centers. The Hebrew and English languages, with Arabic as the prevailing tongues in the commercial marts.

"Palestine," says Consul Southard in his report, "is a small country without demonstrated natural resources of any particular importance. Its population is small and will not for some years possess any considerable purchasing power. Within its own limits it will produce or consume little as compared with the average world political or commercial unit."

The Consul's statement that the local population neither produce nor consume much explains why the world Jew has such reluctance in colonizing the Holy Land. The Arab population is proverbially poor and produces little beyond a few staples of the farm and vineyard. The Jew who is essentially a merchant and trader, finds it impossible to live off the Arab, and he finds it equally impossible to exploit his own people.

American visitors usually leave Palestine with the conviction that if it were not for its historical and Biblical associations and traditions, the Holy Land would figure little in the world's life. There is a firm belief among disinterested Americans that Great Britain would willingly withdraw from its costly occupation of the country if it were not for the security of the Suez Canal, which is only 200 miles away.

RUSSIA GETS NEW COURT SYSTEM TO REPLACE 'CHEKA'

Two Jurors To Sit Beside Judge
And Vote On Final Decision

By Associated Press.
Moscow—The revolutionary tribunals which, along with the dreaded "Cheka" were instruments of red terror during the worst period of the Bolshevik revolution, passed into history the other day when a new and permanent court system was inaugurated throughout Russia. While founded upon lines not unlike those of the court systems of some other European countries, the new Russian courts have some particularly Communistic features all their own.

"The Supreme court of Russia," which will sit in Moscow, will have three branches. One will be for criminal cases, one for civil, and the other a court of appeal. There will be also district courts to try cases of local importance, and the "Peoples' Courts," corresponding to police magistrates, will operate in each village and city district to try minor offenses.

Peter Stuchka, Lettish lawyer who gained fame as the Bolshevik dictator of Latvia when Riga was in the hands of the Communists, has been named as chairman of the Supreme court. Another Lett, M. Karklin, will be his assistant. In the criminal, civil and appeal branches, however, the supreme court judges are mostly men who served in responsible positions on the revolutionary tribunals and Communists tried and true. Jacob Peters, who headed the "Cheka" at Petrograd during the red terror is one of the judges of the criminal department.

M. Kursky, commissar of justice, will be chief procurator or attorney general in the new court system, but the active prosecutor will be Vladimir Krylenko, formerly chairman of the revolutionary tribunals.

JURORS TO AID JUDGE

A peculiar feature of the new system is that a species of "juror" is introduced. There will be two of them in each case, sitting beside the judge and having full powers to question witnesses and attorneys. They will retire with the judge to decide upon the guilt or innocence of the accused, a majority vote of the three serving to convict or free the prisoner. Panels of these prospective jurymen are now being selected throughout Russia. The various trade unions and professional organizations select them from their own numbers, and they must be ready to go into court at any time they are called upon. The Moscow quota of jurors is 4,000. When they sit in trials the jurymen are paid, not by the government, but by their employers, receiving their regular day's wages for the time spent in court.

When the new court system is in full swing, it is expected that most of the lawyers appearing will be men trained in the law courts of the old regime. Professional unions of lawyers are being organized, subject to the approval of the Soviet authorities.

If you are prejudiced against the mechanical-sounding player-piano, you should hear the Gulbransen. You will quickly realize that it is possible to produce an instrument that can duplicate hand playing.

In creating the Gulbransen the manufacturer has done what others have always strived to do. He has made a player piano that gives no indication that its music is produced by other than human touch. This, perhaps, accounts for the fact that in a few years the Gulbransen has become decidedly the leader in its field, the fastest selling, most popular player piano.

MAXWELL DEALER OFFERS PRIZE TO FOLLOW HIS CAR

Western Salesman Puts Car Through Hard Hill Climbing Test

"One thousand dollars to anybody who will follow us for one hour." The above offer was made by the Chamberlain Motor company Maxwell-Chalmers dealers at Riverside, Cal., and all that the aspiring car owner or dealer need to do to win the thousand is to follow a Maxwell touring car on a one hour's spin over all types of roads, or better, all types of no roads.

This offer was made shortly after the Chamberlain Motor company became Maxwell and Chalmers dealers, and after C. A. Chamberlain had himself set out to find a hill in the vicinity of Riverside that would prove too much for the Maxwell-Chalmers car. He failed to find such a hill, but he did find one that no other car was able to negotiate. This grade is known as Pachapa hill, and it was soon named about Riverside that the Maxwell was the only stock car in the city that could accomplish the climb.

At first the car was dubbed a special, and to offset the effect of this allegation the Chalmers Motor company advertised that Pachapa hill could be easily climbed by any Maxwell. To prove this the public was invited to witness a performance of seven cars on Pachapa's slopes. More than two thousand people turned out to witness the test, and after that day there was no longer the slightest doubt in the minds of Riverside motorists.

It was after this performance that the $1,000 offer was made by the Chamberlain Motor company.

Chamberlain Motor company also accomplished an unusual test for the Southern Sierra Power and Light company. A twenty-eight mile run through sand, that had never before been attempted by any passenger car and had only been successfully negotiated by a four-wheel drive truck, was made by a Maxwell touring car carrying four passengers. To cover the worst nine miles of this journey the truck required two hours and seven minutes. The Maxwell made the same stretch in thirty minutes flat.

STAR CAR DRIVEN 2,500 MILES WITH OUT UPKEEP COST

"Twenty-five hundred miles without a nickel of expense except for gas and oil; over the Allegheny mountains; over plowed roads and paved roads; through the largest cities and the smallest towns; holding the road in comfort under all conditions at a usual speed of twenty-five to thirty-five miles per hour and making twenty-five miles to the gallon of gasoline and over four hundred miles on a quart of oil—that is Star performance; that's what this Star car has done."

"It has been the treat of my life to drive the Star car on this trip. Like everyone else I have wondered what the Star car, W. C. Durant's latest motor car creation and the product of his thirty-five years' experience would be like. I know now by this remarkable demonstration that it is his greatest achievement. For it makes possible to all men for the first time at the lowest cost, motor transportation that is satisfactory from every standpoint—performance, economy, comfort and appearance, too."

That is the way L. H. Curtis, secretary of Maryland Motors, Inc., Baltimore, Md., voiced his enthusiasm on his arrival at the Durant plant in Long Island City, N. Y., completing over twenty-five hundred miles in his Star car, a standard stock model.

CHEVROLET GIVING MINISTER IN INDIA SPLENDID SERVICE

Excellent service under unusual conditions recently prompted the Reverend F. C. Aldrich, M. E. R. United Provinces, India, at the conclusion of a 1000 mile trip through the United Provinces, to write a letter of commendation to the Chevrolet Motor Company.

He drove a Chevrolet touring car which was five years old and probably the first one to ever reach that section of the country. It has traveled over 25,000 miles in India. The trip carried Rev. Aldrich and his two sons, with a native cook and a motor boy, from Meerut to Narsinghpur and return. Their luggage and food supply was conveyed in a trailer, although the party found it possible during part of the journey to make camp each night at a dakhbungalow or native public inn.

"We have had no accidents, not even a puncture," writes the Reverend Aldrich; "and on part of the trip we averaged as high as 25 miles to the gallon of gasoline. The country is very hilly, the road winding in and out between the hills and over them, and the little Chevrolet has had to do many a stiff pull to get us up and across some of the places, but the Chevrolet managed this stunt in style."

HUPP MOTOR CAR COMPANY HAS HAD SUCCESSFUL YEAR

Surplus Fund Is Larger Than All Its Stock Outstanding

"The year 1922 was the most successful the Hupp Motor Car Corporation and its subsidiaries ever had both from the standpoint of volume and profits," declares Charles D. Hastings, president and general manager, in the corporation's annual statement to stockholders.

Total assets as of December 31, 1922, are given as $19,079,551.73, of which $388,573.33 is cash and United States certificates. Sight drafts for cash in transit and parts protected by dealers' deposits are listed at $964,171.19 and inventories at $6,882,050.95. Plant assets are set down at $8,187,432.20, less $1,607,501.54 for depreciation.

On Dec. 31, 1922, the corporation carried forward the largest surplus in its history, $8,091,136.30, a reserve strength that probably is not surpassed by any other automotive company in proportion to its assets and liabilities. So strong is the corporation financially that its surplus fund is considerably larger than all its preferred and common stock and that of its subsidiaries outstanding. This stock outstanding totals $5,869,900 of which $5,192,100 is of Hupp common, $667,800 preferred at $109 a share, and $67,086.76 of preferred, common and surplus of the Detroit Auto Specialties Corporation, one of its subsidiaries. Hupp owns 85.5 per cent of the stock of this concern, and the entire stock of the American Gear & Manufacturing Company, of Jackson, Mich., and the H. & M. Body Corporation, of Racine, Wis. These three subsidiaries devote their entire capacity to Hupmobile production.

"We sold during the year 34,167 Hupmobiles," Mr. Hastings says in the statement "an increase of 78 per cent over our previous biggest year," which was 1920. "Export sales showed a satisfactory revival and the outlook indicates a constant increase."

"With the increase in space and equipment at the home plant, our manufacturing processes are now more under our control than ever before. Sales of Hupmobiles by the corporation for the first two months of 1923 were more than double the sales for any previous January and February."

"SIX-40" OF MOON IS HUSKY CAR OF FINE APPEARANCE

Engineers Are Upholding Company's Standard Of Excellence

In creating the new Six-40, Moon engineers have done their utmost to uphold their standard of mechanical excellence in full keeping with requirements of the most exacting.

Only such genius as that evolved through fifty years' experience in fine coach building could have achieved so complete and satisfying a result—such patient care and thought expressed in every little refinement—such complete mastery of mechanical fundamentals.

The new Six-40 is not a so-called "little six," but a husky man-size car of distinctive appearance and at a price within the reach of the average pocketbook. It embodies only standard units of proved quality, each the product of the world's foremost specialists.

Continental, Timken, Delco, Borg & Beck, Spicer, Stromberg, Fedders, etc.—an array of skill not found in any single organization.

Here's a car for those who shun the commonplace—who seek individuality. It meets the keen desire for that distinction and beauty so rare in cars at anything like its price.

From "stem to stern" evidence of attention to detail and refinement. So compact without crowding—so ingeniously fitted—faultless in taste. Speed is evident in every graceful line—power and endurance in every movement.

The Six-40 bears living testimony that a superior six-cylinder car may be built and offered at so remarkable a price.

NASH BLAZES NEW TRAIL FROM UTAH TO LOS ANGELES

Stock Car Reduces Record For Distance, 853 Miles By Over Seven Hours

Blazing a trail through what has been described as the most rugged country in America and marking the shortest route between Salt Lake City and the Pacific Coast, a strictly stock Nash six five-passenger touring car arrived at the Utah metropolis from Los Angeles after a record-breaking run of 24 hours and 21 minutes. This was the elapsed time between checking stations in Los Angeles and Salt Lake. The entire distance of 853 miles between the two terminals includes but 140 miles of hard surface roads. The former record set in 1917 was lowered by seven hours and five minutes.

FLAT RATE CHARGE SYSTEM IS HELP TO DODGE OWNERS

Car Makers Offer Satisfactory Service At Reasonable Cost

Automobile manufacturers and dealers are rapidly learning how important it is to satisfy car owners with service of proper character at a reasonable cost.

Following the example of Dodge Brothers, who were among the first to establish the flat rate system, many other owners are planning or completing similar arrangements to increase service efficiency and reap the good will of car owners. In this connection it is interesting to note the manner in which Dodge Brothers attacked the problem, and the results accruing from their adoption of the flat rate system. The outline here given is from a statement issued by the factory.

"Our flat rate system was started over a year ago and is now used by the majority of Dodge Brothers dealers. They advise that this system has made it possible to practically eliminate friction between the car owner and the dealer on the subject of service charges. Advising the car owner of the cost of service work in advance, convinces him that many charges, which in the old days were regarded as excessive, were really justified. Few car owners have any idea of the amount of labor involved in making service repairs. In the installation of a very small amount of new material, it is quite possible that the necessary labor will cost a comparatively large sum of money."

The car owner is certain to benefit through the installation of the flat rate system because there is now an incentive for the dealer to study short-cut methods and install labor saving devices. This will allow him to increase the volume of work passing through his service station, thus decreasing his overhead cost. The saving permits him to lessen his flat rate charges to car owners and at the same time make a fair business profit."

FACTORY EXPERTS GIVE ADVICE ON UPHOLSTERY CARE

Interior Of Cars Should Get Close Attention To Give Good Wear

It is a matter of pride with many owners to preserve the appearance of their cars and they take special pains through careful washing and cleaning to keep the exterior retaining a bright, lustrous finish. It is just as important that proper methods be followed in the care of the interior of closed cars, and the curtains and top of open cars not only from the standpoint of appearance but for the protection of the upholstery, curtains and top.

To assist the owner of the closed in the care of upholstery, some suggestions based upon the experience of factory experts are given herewith: Closed body interiors should be cleaned with a vacuum cleaner. In the absence of a vacuum cleaner, dust may be removed by brushing with a whisk broom downward on seat backs and sides of cars, and toward the front on cushions and head lining. Brushing in this manner will keep the nap of cloth as it was originally. Do not brush against the nap on any occasion.

Ordinary spots may be removed by passing a damp cloth over the upholstery and steaming by running a hot iron over the entire surface. Do not steam a portion of the surface but go over the entire piece. If a hot iron is held on to cloth until it dries, it will leave a shiny spot which can be removed by going over the shiny surface again.

Grease spots can be removed by the use of ether but it is necessary to go over the entire surface and not just a part of it. Ether raises the nap on broadcloth which makes it necessary to steam the cloth after the spots are removed.

A road beyond description was the course laid out for the most severe test of stamina for the Nash that could be found. Practically 400 miles is single track, one-way road, and 427 miles of the road are through the arid and bleak desert country uncultivated and unimproved land with every character of soil formation. The distance across Washington County, approximately 55 miles, is a succession of side cuts through the remnants of volcanic formation that have passed down through the centuries, the road being up and down steep hills and in many places extremely narrow.

DEMAND FOR CARS GROWING VIEW OF STUDEBAKER FIRM

Retail Sales Climbing High, Reports From All Over Country Show

"Reports reaching the Studebaker factory from all over the country show that retail sales of Studebaker cars for the whole year to date, have beaten all previous records," says W. E. Bishop, the Studebaker dealer.

"Cars have been purchased by the public as fast as they arrived. They have been ordered for immediate delivery to waiting buyers, rather than to take care of the usual spring demand, and as a result there promises to be a serious shortage of Studebaker cars during April, May and June."

"Several factors have contributed to this record-breaking demand for Studebaker cars. The first, undoubtedly the ever-growing appreciation of the automobile as the indispensable necessity it is in the life of today. Another factor has been the open winter the country over, with the exception of a few sections. Then, too, the increased percentage of closed car production has emphasized the insistent winter demand."

"The so-called seasonal demand is a thing of the past. Today we have an all-year demand in the winter as well as in the spring, summer and fall—in the last six months of the year as well as the first six months. And the public benefits from this in a way it may not perhaps appreciate. Speaking for Studebaker, for instance, I may say that a steady, consistent demand for our product permits of greater manufacturing economies than a sharply fluctuating demand would and the public gets the benefit of greater dollar-for-dollar values."

NOTED CARTOONIST IS GIVEN AUTO; HE SELECTS CADILLAC

Clare Briggs Has "Glorious Feeling" When Boss Tells Him To Pick Auto

Suppose your yearly contract for a big fat roll for your services as cartoonist is coming to an end and you particularly need that roll to keep rolling along in the next few months more than ever and you notice that the boss barks at you and you wonder if he isn't thinking of cutting down your salary and then suddenly he calls you in his office and your heart drops down to your boots and then—he informs you he is going to renew your contract at increased pay and offers you as a bonus for hearty desires—"Ain't it a grand and glorious feeling?"

That very thing happened to Clare Briggs, famous syndicate cartoonist, whose cartoons, appearing in 150 daily newspapers, cause a perpetual ripple of laughter from coast to coast. The "ain't it a grand and glorious feeling" series have a kick of happiness that illustrates the fact that 99 per cent of our worries never happen.

Briggs, who has owned a Cadillac for six years, went out into Broadway where are displayed the automobiles from all the marts of trade of the world to pick out any car he desired—his bonus for his excellent work. He looked them all over, using that same keen sense that so unerringly picks out the traits of human nature and then decided on a new Type 61 Cadillac.

OAKLAND CAR HAS PLAYED ITS PART IN AUTO PROGRESS

When McKinley was nominated for president there were only four gasoline automobiles in the whole United States. Today there are more than ten million.

Two factors, among many, have helped to work this miracle—the spirit of youth, and the spirit of co-operation.

Because the industry was young, its courage knew no limiting traditions. Because it recognized the value of co-operation almost every car has contributed something of value to the development of all the rest.

Take these three General Motors cars, as examples: Cadillac early achieved a craftsmanship which astonished European engineers, and won the Dewar Trophy for America.

Oldsmobile was the first to introduce the principles of quantity production.

Oakland pioneered in the production of a successful light six cylinder automobile to sell for less than a thousand dollars.

The horizon of the industry was broadened by that achievement. Families, to whom the ownership of a six cylinder car had been only a hope, found their hopes realized; and men began to think of the automobiles as the servant of all the people.

RAILROADS ADOPT GASOLINE DRIVEN REO AUTOMOBILES

Number Of Speed Wagons Serving Transportation Firms In East

"Flanged wheel, gasoline propelled vehicles are about the very latest in railway transportation," according to Mr. Schneider of the Appleton Motor Company in speaking of a number of Speed Wagons equipped in this manner and serving eastern railroads and traction companies.

These are made in a variety of styles ranging from the regular Speed Wagon with the delivery body to the 20 passenger job with four-wheel front trucks.

For the lighter style of "Railroad Reo," as Mr. Schneider calls these steel rail cars, the stock Speed Wagon chassis is used. The regular pneumatic tires and rims are replaced by flanged steel rims of demountable type. In this way, the car can be quickly converted from highway to railway use, and vice versa.

Speeds to 40 miles are easily attained, while the gasoline consumption is no greater than on the highway. Maintenance costs are decreased, for there is less shock and torsion strain in railway use than the same car would receive in road work.

FORD ESTABLISHES NEW HIGH SELLING MARK LAST MONTH

Detroit Office Reports 116,000 Cars Disposed Of In February

By Associated Press
Detroit, Mich.—With 116,080 Ford cars sold at retail in February a new record for the shortest month in the year has been established. February sales exceeded those of January by more than 15,000 and marked the eleventh month in which Ford sales have topped the 100,000 line.

This sales record bears out predictions made at the opening of the year that an acute shortage in Ford cars is certain and this shortage is expected to be felt within the next two months with the increased volume of car buying which is always attendant upon the spring months.

Even the high production schedule set at the Ford Motor Car Company's factory here, which will reach 6,000 cars and trucks a day about April 1, will be unable to meet the apparent demand for Ford products.

DORT 'SIX' SHOWS CLASS AT TRIALS HELD IN MISSOURI

Wide Experiments Shows Few Changes In Fundamental Of Car Construction

By E. T. Strong.
Since the announced production of the millionth Buick engine, which will of course be followed by the millionth complete Buick car, I have received, and have answered, many letters.

As there is a real distinction in reaching the million mark in automobile production, some of the whys and wherefores sought by my correspondents might likewise be of general public interest. I herewith summarize them for what they may be worth.

It is necessary to go back twenty years, back to the very inception of the Buick Motor Company, to find the first important fundamental reason for Buick growth—namely a well defined conviction at the outset of what an automobile should be.

LAW ENFORCEMENT IS LIONS' IDEAL, DR. HOLMES SAYS

Appleton Den Of Lions To Participate In International Contest

A strong plea for enforcement of every law on the statute books, regardless of its popularity with the masses of people, was made by Dr. J. A. Holmes, pastor of the First Methodist church and district governor of the Lions, at the regular weekly luncheon of Appleton Lions club on Monday. Dr. Holmes declared that to continue to defy the law is to destroy the government and to undermine the faith of the people.

Beginning next Monday, April 2, the Lions clubs of the world will hold an attendance contest in which the Appleton den will participate. Team captains were appointed at Monday's meeting to endeavor to secure a 100 per cent attendance at meetings here until May 28.

DISTRICT CONVENTION

The district convention of Lions will be held in Madison May 15 and 16 and plans have been started to send a large delegation of Appleton Lions to the state meeting. Dr. Holmes, as district governor will preside at the gathering. Dr. Holmes declared in his address on law enforcement that the ideals of Lions clubs everywhere is respect for law, and that it is the ultimate goal of this nation to secure a standard of citizenship that will always do its duty. Good citizenship is not measured by obedience to laws which please us, but obedience to all laws, even if they hurt. Dr. Holmes said:

"Laws keep pace with social progress, as the people develop new laws become necessary," the speaker declared.

Dr. Holmes decried the disrespect for the Eighteenth amendment in this country but he declared he did not believe the disobedience to this law is as widespread as is generally reported.

"I cannot believe that the great American people are agreed in defying a law of the United States. I don't believe the people of this country want to make a chaos of their government," he said.

The merits of the Eighteenth amendment and the Volstead law were not discussed. The speaker declared they are on the statute books and should be respected. If the people don't like them there is every opportunity to change them but until they are changed they are part of the law of the land and must be obeyed and respected like every other law.

The man who knows of violations of the law and does not take steps to stop them is not a good citizen, it was declared. Dr. Holmes said that sports men are prompt to report violations of game laws, but violations of other laws, just as important and sacred, are passed by or even covertly supported.

MARSHFIELD SHIPS 29 CARS CHEESE TO ENGLAND

Marshfield—The largest single shipment of cheese ever sent from Wisconsin to a foreign market was started on its way this week by the C. E. Blodgett Cheese Co. of this city, when 29 carloads, weighing some 700,000 pounds was sent to England.

The Marshfield shipment is part of an order for 2,000,000 pounds, placed by British importers, this country getting the order as a result of the inability of New Zealand to produce its usual yearly output. All of the cheese included in the shipment was made within a short distance of this city.

Don't you think other folks would be interested in what you saw if you told them about it in an interesting manner?
The Post-Crescent believes the people have a deep interest in the little things that occur in the city and it is offering two tickets to the Elite theatre for every interesting item reported and printed in the Spied Today section. Charles Chaplin is the attraction at the Elite this week.
If you see something interesting, tell the readers of the Post-Crescent about it. Everybody reads the Spied Today section and it can be made mighty interesting if every reader is an occasional contributor.

DIDN'T KNOW WHAT TO DO

As I was coming home from school Friday I had to wait at the railroad crossing for the 4:10 train. I watched the passengers getting on and one of the last ones was a lady whose blow off just as she was mounting the steps. She became excited and didn't know whether to chase the hat or set on the train without it. Finally, a gentleman got the hat for her, and she got on the train just in time.

BY THE POUND OR IN BULK?

Saturday while I was in Traas' grocery store a great big man came in. He evidently was a bit foggy mentally for he asked if they kept shoes and got rather peeved when the man in charge asked him if he wanted old shoes or new.
Can't you imagine him going to a shoe store and asking for a pound of butter?

MUST BE A GOOD SHOW

Last evening I was walking down Oneida street, and just as I reached the theatre, I noticed a young lady coming out with her hat on the wrong way, the front in the back. She walked toward College avenue and when she got in front of the Conway hotel she noticed it and immediately took it off and put it on the right way.

THE LITTLE DOG WAS COLD

STONE SAYS HIS LIFE

On my way to school Friday I saw a small boy crossing the street on a tricycle. In about the middle of the street he looked up to see if any cars were coming and he saw one quite near. He hesitated whether to go backward or forward. He went forward however, and his tricycle hit upon a stone throwing the boy out of danger. The tricycle was badly broken.

ON THE SCREEN

"The Pilgrim," a comedy classic in which Charles Chaplin rises to even greater heights of subtlety than he has ever before attained, began an engagement yesterday at the Elite Theatre that threatens to rival in point of popularity his unforgettable feature, "The Kid."

A four-reel feature production, rich in true humor, it provides to all classes of theatre goers and again reveals Chaplin as the greatest living pantomime.

Thrills, humor and pathos permeate every foot of this film that at once convulses and intrigues the onlooker.

BILL HART RIDES OVER A PRECIPICE

Never has big Bill Hart, the true representative of Americans courageous pioneers, performed more hazardous stunts than in his latest screen production, which will be shown at the Elite Theatre today, tomorrow and Thursday as an added attraction with Chaplin in "The Pilgrim."

The grim man of the desert is absolutely without fear, and yet curiously enough is one of the most sensitive of men. It is this striking combination of strength and kindness that has made Bill Hart the most loved of American actors.

WANTED TO SEE IT HIMSELF

A woman on the corner of Drew and Franklin streets stopped to speak to a boy about four years old who was playing in the snow. The woman asked him several questions but he wouldn't answer. Finally the woman said, "I never saw such a funny boy without a tongue." After watching the woman until she had gone about a half block he stuck his tongue out as far as he could and then tried to pull it out farther with his fingers so that he could see it.

JUST LOST HER BALANCE

Sunday afternoon at about four o'clock a young man and lady were walking in the road on Spencer street. A former came along in a bob sleigh which was open in the back, and asked them to ride along. They got in, and stood up in the box. When the sleigh stopped for them to get off again farther down the road, the horses stooped so suddenly that the lady lost her balance and down in the snow she went. She evidently didn't hurt herself, for they all laughed about it.

WIRE SCREENS PREVENT GASES FROM EXPLODING

By Associated Press
Chicago—Discoveries of far-reaching importance to industrial concerns and others handling flammable solvents such as gasoline, ether, alcohol, amyl acetate and light oils, have been announced by the Fire Underwriters Laboratories as a result of a study of the fire danger from volatile liquids.

Screens of fine brass, copper or silver mesh, the chemists discovered will prevent the spread of flames through vapor filled pipes connecting storage tanks of the highly inflammable liquids. The investigation was undertaken at the request of one of the world's largest explosive manufacturers to reduce the fire hazard in his factories, but the discoveries will be applicable wherever dangerous solvents are handled.

The experiments covered flat and cone shaped wire screens in pipes of from one-half to six inches in diameter, and showed that when properly applied the screens would halt the flames, although the rest of the pipe was filled with a dangerous vapor mixture. Mixtures of ether and air proved the hardest to control, gasoline being next in order, followed by acetone, alcohol, light oil and amyl acetate.

The investigation also included benzol, turpentine, kerosene, amyl alcohol, acetic acid, aniline, nitrobenzol, glycerol, linseed oil, cottonseed oil, palm oil, paraffin oil, chloroform, lard oil, camphor and phenol.

Priscilla Dean has been referred to as "the vital emotionalist of the screen."

Critics, regardless of their differences of opinion regarding minor details of technique, have been almost unanimous in proclaiming the Universal-Jewel star "the Dean of emotionalists."

Direct, masculine, forceful in her emotional punch, Priscilla Dean has gained a unique rating among the actresses of the world "who really count." Because of her peculiar freedom from mannerisms and man-made restricting tendencies, the common fault of screen beauties, she stands alone in her style of art, exemplified perfectly in "Under Two Flags" at the Majestic Theatre now showing.

The chic styles of which three are here illustrated will appeal to women and misses.

The taffeta used in these dresses is of the best quality, crisp, dainty and lustrous; the workmanship has that exquisite finish of detail that distinguishes the really smart frock.

Some of the smart features are skirts with basket-weave hem borders and panels; the "petal" skirt trimmed with tucks and rosettes; the slightly bouffant skirt with its billowy gracefulness adorned with ribbon flowers. The waist parts are charmingly conservative in hue and variously adorned. Most of the frocks have collars of self material, lace or Georgette.

TO CHARGE ALIENS TAX ON PROFITS OF SECURITIES SALE

Revenue Department Enforcing
Rule Which Will Benefit
Some Persons

Uncle Sam comes in for a share of the profits and lets the taxpayer have the benefit in his tax account of the losses on the sales of securities by nonresident aliens, according to an announcement of A. H. Wilkinson, collector of internal revenue of Wisconsin.

The new rulings are explained by the collector in the statement which follows:

Administrative measures have been taken by the bureau of internal revenue to carry into effect two important amendments to the revenue act of 1921, adopted during the closing days of the session, in respect to exchanges of property and income tax of nonresident aliens. Section 202 of the act is amended by eliminating the provision allowing the exchange free from tax of stocks, bonds, notes, certificates of trust or beneficial interest, and limits the cases where securities may be exchanged for other securities without the realization of taxable income to those cases where the exchange is in connection with the reorganization of one or more corporations. As a consequence of this amendment, any exchange of securities effected subsequent to January 1, 1923, may result in taxable income or deductible loss, the amount of which should be computed as if the securities had been sold for an amount of cash equivalent to the fair market value of the property received in exchange. Section 202, prior to its amendment, provided for the exchange of property held for investment for other property of a like kind without the realization of taxable income.

Section 202 is amended also to provide that in the case of tax free exchanges, for example, exchanges of securities, in connection with the reorganization of a corporation, where money is received "to boot," the amount of gain realized from the exchange is the excess of the sum of the money and the fair market value of the property received in exchange over the cost (where applicable) the fair market value as of March 1, 1913) of the property exchanged, provided, however, that the amount of taxable gain resulting from the exchange should not exceed the amount of money received. For example, if, prior to the enactment of this amendment, a taxpayer exchanged, in connection with the reorganization of a corporation, stock which cost him 1,000 for other stock of a fair market value of $1,100, together with $400 in cash, no taxable income resulted therefrom. Under this amendment, the amount of gain resulting from this exchange would be $600, but the taxable gain would be only $400, the amount of money received in exchange.

The effect of the amendment in respect to income tax of nonresident aliens is to give nonresident aliens who are residents of a contiguous country (for example, Canada) the benefit of the 4 per cent rate of normal tax on the first $4,000 of net income in excess of a personal exemption of $1,000 received as compensation for labor or services performed in the United States. Prior to the enactment of this amendment, the entire net income of every nonresident alien from sources received within the United States, in excess of a personal exemption of $1,000, was subject to a normal tax rate of 8 per cent. The amendment extends also to nonresident aliens, who are residents of a contiguous country, the benefit of the $400 credit for each dependent. The amendment is retroactive to take effect January 1, 1922.

Rummage Sale Left Behind By Flight Of Time

The Pettibone-Peabody rummage sale—a semi-annual event for seventeen years, has been shunted into the discard by the passage of time, J. D. Steele, president of the company, announced on Tuesday. The sale has been held in January and July of each year for nearly two decades. It is to be abandoned because it no longer serves the purpose for which it was started.

The rummage sale originally was a clean-up event in which all the left-overs from the store were piled in the basement and sold at greatly reduced prices. For several years the sale was only in the basement but later it spread all over the store. The term "rummage sale" has been a misnomer for years and now it has been decided to abandon the event all together.

It is probable, however, that the store will arrange a sale or a fair to take its place.

NATIONAL C. OF C. WILL MEET IN MAY

Many notices are being sent to the chamber of commerce about the eleventh annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, which will take place in New York from May 7 to 10. Vital problems which are affecting business will be discussed including transportation, quality standard in commodity production, coal, rubber crisis, petroleum situation, export problems in cotton and other products. The program gives every indication that the convention will be a great power in the business of the country.

TOURIST TRAFFIC SPURS BUILDING OF HOTELS

Nearly every mail brings booklets to the Appleton Chamber of Commerce showing the work that chambers in other cities have done to promote hotels in their cities and urging others to join the movement for better hotel accommodations for the traveling public. Hugh G. Corbett, secretary of the local chamber, said that since the postcard and pamphlet information sent out concerning cities brings thousands of people to those cities, it is natural that the chambers take an interest in promoting hotels and better hotel conditions.

The tourist trade has directed considerable attention to hotels and it is estimated that nearly every city of this size will need additional hotel facilities this summer. Fond du Lac has just completed its new building, Green Bay and Madison are making plans while other cities are feeling the need for new buildings.

PREPARE IN NORTH FOR BIG YIELD OF SAP FROM WOODS

Wisconsin Ranks Among Heavy
Producers Of Maple Syrup
And Sugar

Ashland—The manufacture of maple syrup is probably well along in such great producing states as Ohio and Illinois, but it is just starting in states like Minnesota, Wisconsin and Vermont, all heavy producers. Ohio and Vermont lead the union in output. Wisconsin ranking seventh.

This spring, owing to the heavy March snowstorms, it has been necessary for northern growers to break roads to their sugar groves. Scores of small sugar camps are in operation along the Big River reservation near Ashland, but the Indians as a rule make sugar making simply a pleasure trip, two or three women or a whole family sometimes going into the woods, clear off the snow drifts, build a shack, and tap a few trees, boiling down the sap for their own use only.

Only a small per cent of the maple trees in the Lake Superior country have ever been tapped. Extreme northern Wisconsin is almost exclusively a pine region, but the maples appear a few miles back from the lake.

Perhaps the largest sugar bush in northern Wisconsin is at Cayuga, Ashland county. The owner, C. B. Riggs, has acquired a large tract covered with large maple trees and is a big producer. P. X. K. Hanner, of Glidden, has 3,200 trees on a fifty-five acre tract. These two producers have put in modern appliances, and manufacture both sugar and syrup.

In a good season, a single tree produces at least fifteen gallons of pure sap. Three average trees will produce fifty gallons, but it takes this entire fifty gallons to make a single gallon of syrup. The syrup boiled down, makes the sugar but the indescribably delicate and fine flavor of pure maple syrup is lacking. Cold nights and warm mornings, are the ideal for sap flow, and continued warm weather may cut the output of a tree to five gallons. The output of sap therefore varies according to the season, from fifty gallons from three trees, to as low as fifty gallons from ten trees.

The use of homemade birch bark buckets is widespread in the Lake Superior country. They cost nothing but the labor.

34 ARE WAITING TO BECOME CITIZENS

Wives Of Applicants Also Must File Papers, Danielson Says

Thirty-four applicants are on the waiting list to take the examination for United States citizenship under George N. Danielson, naturalization examiner, and Judge Edgar V. Werner of the circuit court. A preliminary hearing will probably take place in May.

Thus far only three women have applied for citizenship at the next hearing. Examiner Danielson has notified the men who were admitted to citizenship last fall that their wives must take out papers also to become United States citizens. Under the new law, American women who married aliens after Sept. 22, 1922 do not lose their citizenship. But even though wives were born in the United States, if they married an alien before Sept. 22, 1922, and he was not admitted to citizenship until after that date, the wife must apply for citizenship also.

PUPILS AT WORK ON FALL FAIR EXHIBITS

Teachers and pupils of Outagamie county schools have begun the preparation of the school exhibits which will be entered at the Seymour and Hortonville fairs this fall. Practically all of these exhibits are completed before the end of the school year and are turned in to the county superintendent of schools who arranges the exhibit at the fairs. Judging from the class of work that has been accomplished this term, the exhibits next fall will be of unusual merit.

HALF CENTURY

A large share of the expense in any roof is the labor of laying it. If you put on the right kind of roof, that settles the matter for good and all. You are never going to have to fuss with it and your first cost is going to be your last cost. That is the result when you insist on having

"HALF CENTURY" BRAND WHITE CEDAR SHINGLES.

Laid With Galvanized or Copper Nails

There is no wood that can excel White Cedar in weather-resisting quality. That's why it is such a wonderful shingle weather. And "Half Century" Shingles are the best White Cedar Shingles because they are made the right thickness and are air cured.

Shingles that are cut too thin or are too hastily seasoned, as is apt to be the case when they are cured under the dry kiln process, are liable to split in nailing and they have a tendency to crack, curl and warp.

"Half Century" Shingles are cut right, cured right and they last as long as their name indicates. And they stain beautifully in any shade.

This is going to be a big night in Appleton bowling circles. The City Bowling league will complete its schedule and there is just one game's difference between the leaders, Elks Imperials and Hoppie's Weiners, runners up.

There is some talk that there will be a protest made over one of last week's games which the Imperials took from the Hoffman Construction Co. first on the strength of totals. The game, the first, was a 900 score for all and the captains decided that totals of the entire match would take it. The Elks won. Now come some players, fed up with rules who say that each of the participants in the game should have shot one ball to decide who should take the tilt.

The schedule for Tuesday night:

LAWRENCE MAY HOLD STATE TRACK MEET

Plans May Be Changed With Appointment Of Trezise As Coach

As the result of the appointment of Fred Trezise, trainer, as coach of the Lawrence track team, preparations for Lawrence's track activities will be in full swing when school reconvenes next Monday.

Approximately 15 letter men of the last year's squad in addition to a number of newcomers have already answered Trezise's call. Capt. Homer Hunt is heading the athletes.

The squad faces probably the most comprehensive schedule of any previous Lawrence squad. With approximately six weeks for preparation for their first meet, the Blue and White will open up activities against Marquette university at Milwaukee on May 5, taking on either Stevens Point Normal or Ripon college the week following. Besides this, the squad will be entered in the Mid-West conference meet to be sponsored by Knox college at Galesburg, Ill., about May 18, as well as the state Little Five conference meet to be conducted either at Lawrence or Beloit, probably the last week in May.

This is Lawrence's year for entertaining the state meet of Wisconsin's colleges, Lawrence, Carroll, Beloit, Ripon and Northwestern, and although it was at first announced, that, due to lack of facilities, Lawrence would not be able to sponsor so important an event, such announcement has been canceled, according to the Lawrence coach, and there is now a probability that the meet will be conducted in this city. Definite announcement to that effect is expected shortly.

Training Camp Tips

Pittsburg—The Pittsburg Nationals will play interclub games each day this week except Saturday when the Pirates will meet the Boston Americans for the third pre-season game, according to advices received from Hot Springs.

The Yarnigans won yesterday's interclub game, 9 to 2. Clyde Barnhart's arrival has completed the Pirate roster. Reb Russell was kept out of Monday's game by a slight cold and Maraville was knocked unconscious by a batted ball.

Cleveland—Manager Arthur Fletcher of the Philadelphia National league club is believed here to be the first player ejected this season. Fletcher was ejected from the Park by Howard Holmes, the new American league umpire at Lakeland Monday during a game between the Phillies and the Cleveland Indians, for too much talk, according to advices received here.

'WE WANT WOLPIN' CRY OF FIGHT FANS

Match With Emke Is Most Favored By Appleton Boxing Bugs, Vote Shows

Billie Wolpin, Appleton's hard hitting middleweight, should be matched with Emke, the St. Paul boxer. At least this is the wish of about 50 boxing fans who have registered their "vote" on the next boxing show to be given next month by the Mid-West Athletic club.

Two petitions, containing 44 names, reached the Post-Crescent sports department Tuesday morning asking for a match between Wolpin and Emke. Another petition, containing eight names, demands that Elmer Johnston, promoter, match Wolpin and Gunner Joe Quinn, St. Paul and former sparring partner of Wolpin. The "petition" was turned over to the sporting editor with a note that if Quinn will not be available Emke should meet the Appleton glove topper.

A lonely vote, coming from Kimberly asks that Quinn and Nuss, DePere, entertain the Appleton fight bugs.

Apparently Appleton fight fans want to give Wolpin a chance to show his wares again. Wolpin who nearly knocked out Jack Duffy in the sixth round in their ten round fracas, says the reason he was unable to put over the haymaker was that he was snowed out of the Pond du Lac station when he should have been training and that he lost every bit of good that the Milwaukee gym did him by the time he got to Appleton for the show. It looks now that it will be up to Johnston to sign an opponent for Wolpin and up to the fans to attend the show.

JOHNSTON WINS AGAIN
Boston — Floyd Johnson of Iowa knocked out Ray Thompson of New York in 20 seconds.

CUE ARTISTS TO MEET IN 2 MATCHES

County pocket billiard laurels will be at stake Tuesday night when an Appleton and a Kaukauna pair of cue artists will clash in the Carr & Hansen billiard room in a 100 point challenge match.

Kaukauna will be represented by Drawnek and George Zwick while Appleton will be defended by Oaks and McCoy. The game will start at 8:30.

Another match game that will be of big interest in local circles is scheduled for Thursday night in the Carr & Hansen room. It will be between Harry Vandersen, the Little Chute wonder boy and Henry Liethen, Appleton pocket billiard artist. Vandersen is the same lad who with Hartjes defeated La Fond and Selig in a challenge match recently. The game Thursday night will be for 100 points. George Hoffman will referee.

This is Lawrence's year for entertaining the state meet of Wisconsin's colleges, Lawrence, Carroll, Beloit, Ripon and Northwestern, and although it was at first announced, that, due to lack of facilities, Lawrence would not be able to sponsor so important an event, such announcement has been canceled, according to the Lawrence coach, and there is now a probability that the meet will be conducted in this city. Definite announcement to that effect is expected shortly.

They Will Lead Lawrence

CAPT. BLACKBURN

CAPT. CHRISTOPH

With the announcement this week that "Cub" Buck has been appointed to handle the football department exclusively and that another man will direct basketball activities it is apparent that Lawrence college plans to lead in both sports next year in the Midwest and Little Five conferences of which it is a member.

Lawrence's possibilities in the grid game are bright. A number of good men will be left over from the last three championship teams, outstanding being Lyle Blackburn, '24, captain-elect of the next Blue and White eleven. Lyle came here three years ago and made the football team in his freshman year. He was twice all-state tackle. Blackburn is married. Just what Lawrence will do in basketball will have to be demonstrated. The college didn't do so well this season but with a man free from a "million" duties such as Coach McChesney was burdened with it is possible that Lawrence will hang up a championship in the winter of 1924. George Christoph, 25, captain-elect of the Lawrence five, will have at least five or six veterans on the team with him. Both captains are shown above.

Appleton-Shawano Tilt Was Nerve Wracking

For a long, long time Appleton high school basketball followers, those who were at Madison, will tell how Coach Denney's five played and lost a brilliant game with Shawano for the consolation honors of the state. A little act of sportsmanship at the close of the game gave the Appleton boys honors even greater than the championship itself, officials of the state tournament declared.

Here's what the Madison State Journal wrote in part of the Appleton-Shawano tilt. The scribe called it "nerve wracking."

"No game of the tournament was any more exciting than that between Appleton and Shawano. Nothing but the larger size of the latter quintet was responsible for third place victory. The game was a nerve racking affair, with the lead switching from one team to the other. A number of times it looked as though Appleton had the fracas safely tucked away, but Shawano managed to be in the lead when the gun sounded. Appleton had a two point lead to its advantage when there was but a minute to play of the five-minute overtime period, the score having been tied at 19 all when the regular time was up. Heidenman, diminutive forward who had put his team into the lead a number of times during the progress of the game, caged a long

LIETHEN AND SELIG WIN CITY HONORS

Liethen and Selig defeated Drexler and LaFond two games Monday night at the Carr and Hansen billiard room 100 to 74 and 100 to 77 to determine the winners of the protested game of March 3 which Drexler and LaFond won 100 to 75.

By winning both games, Liethen and Selig emerged with a clean record and won the City Team Championship tournament. Havens and Oaks and Drexler and LaFond are tied for second and will meet shortly to determine second and third place honors.

basket and the timekeeper was holding the gun in the air ready to shoot. Permaick shot at the basket and the ball went through the hoop. The referee declared, however, that a foul had been committed by an Appleton player when the ball was tossed, and he gave Shawano two free throws.

Shawano then sent both tosses through the hoop, giving their team a two point lead as the final gun sounded.

"Pete" Brisee, veteran Appleton guard, played one of the best games that has ever been played by a high school player on the local floor. He is easily the headliner in the team, and he will be a credit to any college team that secures his services within the next few years. He is a wonderful shot, and he directs his teammates from the guard position in veteran style. He takes it easy whenever it is possible, but no player in the tournament gave more to the game when points were needed. Forward Heidenman, although handicapped by a lack of weight and size, plays a good game at forward, and he displays a real fighting spirit at all times.

Teams from Chicago, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Green Bay, and Sheboygan will take the drives Tuesday. Milwaukee

Cleveland Bowler Shoots 2,003 Maples For World's All Events Mark At A.B.C.

M. McDowell Picks Up 682 In Team Event, 608 In Doubles And 713 For Second Place In Singles

Milwaukee—A world's record all events total in American Cleveland, totalling 2,003 for his nine games. He had series totals of 682, 608 and 713 in his team event, doubles and singles respectively. McDowell who is one of Cleveland's best bowlers averaged 205 for 200 games last year and is averaging 215 for 90 games in league play this year.

In the last 12 years he has made 12 perfect scores and last year made 27 consecutive strikes in three games for totals of 275, 300 and 278 for an aggregate total of 853. This total was shot in a match game with George Thile, Cleveland American pitcher. His singles total of 713 put him in second place in that event. F. Chalcraft, who is a member of the Schwabell-Pollack team, Buffalo, rolled into second place in the all events with a total of 1,845 for his nine games.

The only other change to take place Monday was in the team event the Peoples Gas Club team No. 1, Chicago, shooting into fifth place with a total of 2,914 on games of 958, 998 and 958. C. Kloppe, high scorer on the team with 827, started off with 243 in the first game, shot 205 in the second and fell down to 179 in the third, keeping the quintet from going into first place.

Teams from Chicago, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Green Bay, and Sheboygan will take the drives Tuesday. Milwaukee will be represented by the Smith Arcades, of whom, Jimmy Smith, former world's champion bowler is a member.

SPORT VIEWS AND NEWS

Sept. 29 and Oct. 6 are still open dates on the Marquette university football schedule and we think it is time that Lawrence and the Milwaukee school get together on the gridiron again. A letter from Lawrence to Marquette, making an application for one of the dates will not be frowned at by the students or alumni. The break between the schools occurred during the war when "temperament" was running high.

Lawrence and Marquette have a reputation for clean sportsmanship. The "penit" play which caused the rumpus during the S. A. T. C. days has since been tabooed by all eleven.

Playing Marquette in September or early in October will not be the best thing for Lawrence some of the Blue and White followers will argue. It is true that Lawrence will hardly be in shape by then but the same handicap will face Marquette. Lawrence has always given the Hilltoppers a good fight and will do it again no matter what time of the season.

While some basketball teams are thinking of disbanding for the season Fred Bushey and his U. S. Tractors of Menasha are out and about in the state. The Tractors sprung a surprise at Plymouth Sturdy by defeating the crack Legion team there, 22 to 21.

JANET TELLS THE STORY

It said good night pleasantly and went back to my room, undressed, and donned a complete suit of Mr. Bloor's evening clothes, and theater hat, which I had taken the liberty of borrowing from his room. At the time when I knew that the night-watchman's back was turned, I slipped out, descended the stairs which were exactly opposite my door, ascended them again, walked along the corridor, entered Mr. Bloor's room, waited there a moment or two, came out again, and entered the sitting room of our suite. In ten minutes I was back in my bedroom with the diamonds. In an hour's time Mr. Bloor's clothes were back in his room and the diamonds safely disposed of.

GREY'S TELLS HIS SIDE

It was really, in the first place, not owing to any request from my friend Remington that I became interested in the Brighton robbery and murder case. Philip Grey, who was a director of the hotel company, wrote me a personal letter asking me to represent the interests of the hotel in any way I thought fit, and it was on the strength of this appeal that I traveled down to Brighton and took up my temporary residence at the Magnificent Hotel. Within a few minutes of my arrival the manager for himself waited upon me. Almost before we had shaken hands, he had commenced to unburden himself.

"There is just one small matter, Sir Norman," he said "which worries me a little. Mr. Sidney Bloor is all the time practically under arrest. He has left the hotel and is staying in lodgings on the front, but he is watched night and day." "There seems to be a moderately clear case against him," I remarked. "In many respects it would appear convincing," the manager asserted. "His antecedents are bad, his attentions to a woman nearly 20 years his senior are difficult to explain on any basis except that of self-advancement. He escorted her around to the Royal Hotel to play bridge, cut out during the evening, came back to this hotel, and was seen by the fireman, who acts as night-watchman, to enter Mrs. Trumperton-Smith's suite. Mrs. Trumperton-Smith and he returned together early in the morning, between one and two, and he escorted her to her suite. His story is that he stayed there for about five minutes and had a whiskey and soda in the sitting-room, parted with her on friendly terms and subsequently went to his room."

"And what is your comment upon his story?" I asked. "Just this," was the earnest reply. "There is no doubt whatever that the young man did return to the hotel alone, but whereas the night-watchman swears that he saw him enter Mrs. Trumperton-Smith's suite at half-past ten, the hall-porter downstairs, two of the pages and a reception-clerk are equally positive that it was exactly midnight when he came in and went upstairs." "This divergence of evidence," I observed, "is interesting, but I scarcely see what it leads to. Perhaps I had better talk to Mr. Johnson for a little time."

The chief constable himself paid me the honor of a visit, accompanied by Johnson, who was an exceedingly painstaking and capable officer. "You say that none of the jewelry has been recovered?" I asked. "None of the jewelry in question, I fear," Johnson admitted. "Mr. Bloor has two very handsome pins in his possession, but he was clever enough to admit at once that these were given him by the deceased." "You haven't been able to collect any evidence as to his having spoken to anyone outside, on his way back to the Royal?"

"Not at present, I am sorry to say. What about this discrepancy in the alleged time of his visit?" "That is another of the things we are trying to straighten out. Any way, the night-watchman, who is a very respectable fellow, prepared to swear that he saw Sidney Bloor re-enter the suite, even though his idea of the time seems to be out. Assuming that the theft took place then, though, the motive for the murder becomes obscure."

"And Mr. Bloor's own story?" "He came a terrible cropper," Mr. Johnson admitted, a little triumphantly. "He at first stated that he only left the bridge-table when he cut out, to get some fresh air—that he leaned over the wall of the promenade, looking at the sea, the whole of the time. Afterward he admitted that he had visited the hotel and gone up for a moment to Mrs. Trumperton-Smith's suite where he thought he had dropped his cigar case."

"The inquest," I remarked, "has been adjourned."

"Till Thursday week, Sir Norman," the chief constable told me. "The evidence given at the inquest is at your disposal at any time."

"I have already studied it," I said. "I should like, if possible, to have a few words with the night-porter and with the deceased's maid."

The former, whose name was John O'Hara, proved to be a very respectable, stolid and obstinate man. Nothing could shake his conviction that he had seen Sidney Bloor enter Mrs. Trumperton-Smith's suite at about half-past ten and emerge from it five minutes later. He admitted that the corridor was badly lighted, but he would not hear a word said against his watch. I dismissed him with the conviction that, so far as he knew it, he was speaking the truth. Then I sent for the maid. There was a brief delay, following by the sound of soft footsteps outside and the opening and shutting of a door. I glanced up from the copy of O'Hara's evidence which I had been studying, and I received, I think, the greatest shock of my life. With her back pressed to the closed door, her fingers clinging to the handle, stood the woman whom I had known as Janet Stanfield!

Neither of us spoke for several moments. Her lips were parted, but if she gave vent to any exclamation, it was inaudible. Her eyes were fixed upon my face in a stare of amazement. Janet came slowly over toward me. "I did not know that you were here," she said.

"Nor I that you had re-entered domestic service," I replied.

She flinched a little but she answered me quite quietly. "Poverty is a hard mistress. When you met me in Bond Street some months ago, and I lunched with you, I was engaged at a dressmaker's establishment. Then my husband sent for me to go to Paris. You know very well what happened to us there. I returned to London worse off than when I had left. I lost my situation. Then I became a mantu-maker. I stood that for about three weeks. I had nine shillings in my purse when I saw Mrs. Trumperton-Smith's advertisement. I answered it and came here."

"You are better off now," I ventured.

"I didn't you better warn me that anything I say may be used as evidence against me," she asked mockingly.

"I agree. Yet I shall ask you one question, and one only."

"I do not promise to answer it," "But you will answer it," I insisted, watching her steadily, "and you will tell me the truth. Had you any thing to do with Mrs. Trumperton-Smith's death?"

"I had not," she replied unflinchingly.

"You were not even an accomplice?"

"One question you promised to ask, and one I to answer," she said. "I have finished."

"I was thoughtful for a moment. I was thinking of the doctor's evidence at the inquest. The coroner had asked him whether the injuries on the throat of the deceased could have been inflicted by a woman. The reply was there on the depositions before me: 'I should think it very unlikely.'"

"Very well," I said, "I will waive my second question. Instead I will make an appeal to you. I am here to try and discover the person who robbed and murdered your late mistress. Can you help me?"

"If I could, why should I?" she demanded. "We are in opposite camps."

"There will certainly be a reward for the recovery of the jewels."

"I should very much like to earn it," she admitted. "I do not know who stole them."

"Have you any idea," I asked her, "why Mrs. Trumperton-Smith left the hotel for her bridge-party that night without her jewelry at all?"

"She Bloor suggested that she should take off her diamonds and leave them at home," she answered. "And she did?"

"Yes." "You know that Mr. Bloor came back to the suite?"

"I have been told so."

"And you know that the evidence is very conflicting as to what time he paid his visit?"

"Yes, I know that. Why shouldn't he have paid two?"

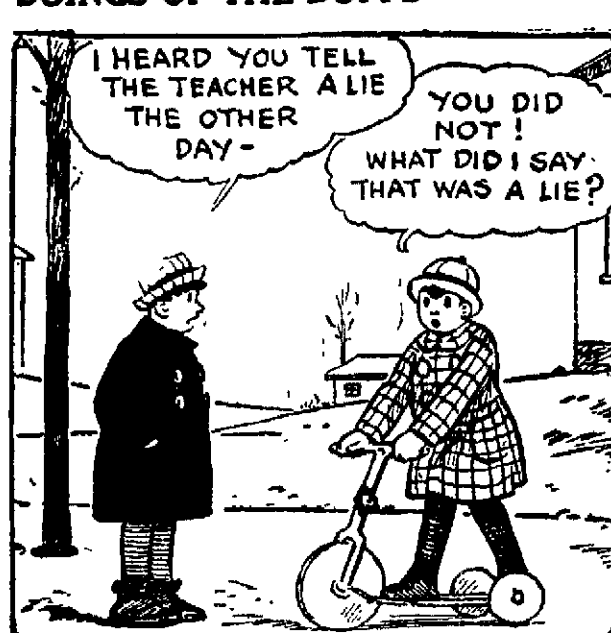

"It is an idea," I admitted. "Do you think that Sidney Bloor is the man we want?"

"Why should you imagine that I would help you if I could?" she asked coldly.

"From the little I have heard of Mr. Sidney Bloor, I should have looked upon him as a nincompoop," I continued.

Men Now Use Full Name In Signing Letters

You men who have been signing your letters, "Yours sincerely, Jno. Smith," will have to forget that old-fashioned custom. It is as much out-of-date nowadays to sign an abbreviation of your name as to say, "I beg to subscribe myself, Sir, Your Obedt. Serv't, Chas. Jones."

Abbreviations of this kind are no longer considered in the best form, particularly for social correspondence, although permissible but not preferred for business. Chas. Jones, Edw. Wm. Jones, and their kind are being put in the discard along with other ancient usages.

If you are addressing a letter or note to Mr. William Smith or his wife you should avoid using the abbreviation, unless your letter is purely business in form and then you should take care to use the name as it has been used in letters sent from the person to you.

WHEN TELEPHONING
Many persons are much embarrassed to know how to give their names over the telephone. A young man, if telephoning a friend or social acquaintance, would surely be making a mistake to give his name as with the prefix Mr. For instance John Henry Jones should not say "This is Mr. Jones." Usually he should say "This is John Jones" whether the person to whom he is telephoning calls him by his first name or not. If he is telephoning in business, but in a personal way, he may use John Jones or John Henry Jones, though it may be that he prefers to use initials thus, "This is J. H. Jones." If he is simply giving an order or telephoning to some one he does not know personally he would probably use the form "Mr. John Jones," or Mr. J. H. Jones.

ALWAYS USE SAME FORM
It is always a good plan to decide on the form in which you are going to sign your name and to stick to that throughout all your correspondence. It often leads to confusion if you sign your checks by one form, your business letters by another and your personal letters by another. It is well to settle on your banking signature, and then to stick to that throughout.

A married woman may keep her middle name or may use her maiden family name for a middle name after her marriage. Thus if she was Mary Louise Scott and married John Smith, she may sign her name either Mary L. Smith or Mary S. Smith, or Mary Louise Smith, or Mary Scott Smith. It is not in such good usage to use the four names, Mary Louise Scott Smith.

Beads Have Firm Grip On Affections Of Women

Beads, beautiful of bizarre, precious or inexpensive, have taken a firm hold upon our affections. This is not surprising, for the right string of beads will give the simplest frock an air of originality and "finish."

To a great extent the beauty of beads depends upon the way they are strung. A rather commonplace necklace of crystal beads is completely transformed by stringing them on thick blue silk (a deep shade of turquoise). The stringer makes a knot between each bead and adds a slender tassel of blue silk strands, on which are threaded a very few small crystal beads.

When threading beads it is always wise to make knots between each two. This is quite the safest and the most effective method. Pearls and other valuable beads, if an constant use, should be restringed by professional stringers, not less than three or four times a year. To overlook this simple precaution is to court disaster. Less valuable beads may quite well be strung at home. Violin strings are some of the strongest materials to use. Round elastic can be used for a short necklace, but this soon wears out. Thick embroidery silk of mercerized cotton from three to eight strands—is the material generally used. It is tough, and there is no difficulty in getting the exact shade you want.

Many people like "mixed" necklaces. For instance, onyx, crystal and pink coral beads look exquisite threaded on white silk cord.

Another lovely combination consists of big corals and small beads of cloudy white quartz on a knotted thread of burnt orange.

A necklace made from three strands of small porcelain or wooden beads—black, gray and china blue—evenly plaited together and finished with a bead tassel, is very pretty, and also something of a novelty.

The charm of a necklace does not always depend upon the amount of beads used. A rarely beautiful necklace can be made from a dozen beads or even less.

NORMA TALMADGE'S Manners
By Norma Talmadge
© 1923 by NEA Service Inc.

EVERY woman admires a well dressed man. She grants him wide latitude in selection of materials, but she is exacting about cut and fit. American tailors are guilty of many unhandsome freak styles, many American men are guilty of wearing them. But any man can have distinctive clothes, and yet have them within the confines of good taste.

MEN'S CLOTHES
1: The full dress suit must be perfect in fit, cut and material; it should be made of dull-faced black worsted, with satin facing and collar and wide braid on the trousers, but no other trimming.

2: With the full dress suit wear a white linen waistcoat, white lawn tie, white handkerchief, white gloves and white boutonniere, English silk hat, white or black-and-white muffer, patent leather pumps, shoes or ties and plain black silk socks, black or dark blue overcoat, plain wood stick. The patent leather pumps should be worn only when it is the intention to dance.

3: With the dinner coat wear trousers with braid narrower than the full dress trousers, white or black waistcoat, plain black silk or satin tie.

4: Business suits should be conservative, and whether a man can afford two or two hundred, if he wishes to be exactly proper and to appear to best advantage, he never should wear the same suit more than a day consecutively, but should alternate.

5: Jewelry should be worn conservatively; there should be nothing extreme, brilliant or garish.

IT'S BAD MANNERS for a man to wear a jeweled ring on his third finger; it should be worn on the little finger.

COLD ORANGE SOUFFLE
By Bertha E. Stapleigh
Souk one tablespoon of gelatine in one fourth cup of cold water for 15 minutes. In a sauce pan place the unbeaten yolks of three eggs, one half cup of sugar, a pinch of salt and two tablespoons of lemon juice and stir until smooth. Place this over water and cook until thickened. Add the soaked gelatine and allow the mixture to cool.

When it begins to stiffen add one cup of orange pulp, whites of three eggs, stiffly beaten, and a half cup of cream, also stiffly beaten. Turn into a mold and chill for two hours, or until ready to serve.

GRAPEFRUIT SALAD
Separate sections of two large or three small grapefruit free from skin and seeds. Chill, wash and separate leaves of one head of lettuce and cut two pimientos into strips. Mash one cream cheese with a fork, add six tablespoons of oil, two tablespoons of lemon juice, one half teaspoon salt, one half teaspoon paprika, and one teaspoon sugar and mix to the consistency of a thin mayonnaise.

Arrange lettuce leaves in a salad dish, fill center with grapefruit, cover with the cream cheese dressing and garnish with the peppers.

One of the most deservedly popular, artistically beautiful and serviceable rug treatments for the living-room is that of the large plain neutral-toned rug. Let me tell you about a living-room that had successfully made use of just such a plain taupe-colored rug. While a rug of this kind may be found in chester, wilton, axminster or velvet depending upon the price desired, this one was chenille, the most expensive and was cut seven feet wide from a piece woven fifteen feet, resulting in a rug seven by fifteen, of ample size for the living room measuring 12 feet by 22, when it is remembered that the hearth and the wall furniture fill much of the side floor space—From the April Designer.

Choose Your Living Room Rug

Of all the rooms to be rugged, the living room seems the most important. And while the rug choice appears more than ample, it really may be narrowed down, generally speaking, to the all over plain rug, the two tone unnoticeable design, the all over genuine Oriental not too garish in pattern or coloring, small genuine Oriental rugs, small plain rugs of flat weave, and the occasional informal living room handmade, oval rug rugs.

Adventures Of The Twins

The Queen of Hearts
The Twins crawled along the old man's beard right through the sky from Mars to Jupiter.

They were searching still for Mother Goose's broom.

When they arrived, they unhooked the end of the old man's beard from the star point where it had caught when he threw it, and the last they saw of him, he was winding it up again on his garden-hose wheel.

"Thank you!" called Nancy and Nick, waving their hands.

"You are welcome!" answered the old man waving back to them.

Jupiter was a queer place, just as queer as Mars, but much bigger. The children looked around curiously.

Suddenly someone came toward them, running as fast as he could. When he saw them he stopped suddenly and put his hands behind his back.

"Who're you?" he demanded, the little boy quickly. "I know who you are. I can tell by your hat. You're the Knave of Hearts and you've stolen the queen's tarts. You've got them now."

Just then the queen herself came running up, all out of breath, her crown on one side of her head and her kitchen apron untied. "Oh, you rascal!" she cried. "Give me those tarts at once. I made them for my tea party this afternoon, for King Cole and the King and Queen of Spades. The poor things got so tired of bread and honey. I thought I'd give them a treat. And now you've stolen two!"

The Knave of Hearts looked guilty and handed them over.

"And now, my dears, what are you after?" asked the good queen.

"Mother Goose's broom!" said Nancy. "She's lost it."

"I wish I had it this very minute," declared the queen, looking at her son sternly.

TAFFETA CAPES
Taffeta capes have wide puffs of silk about the collar which stand out from the face in ruff fashion. Often, too, the bottom of the cape is treated to a puffing and a chiffon lining is added for beauty rather than warmth.

FASHIONABLE CUFFS
Flaring turn-back cuffs are featured on the new spring frocks. On dark dresses a white cuff gives a dainty feminine appearance, and on white frocks a colored one adds a distinctive touch. Pleated ruchings which fall over the wrist are also exceedingly stylish.

PICTURE HAT
A large black picture hat is trimmed with a wreath of water lilies and with long velvet streamers which reach almost to the hemline.

RIBBON TRIMMING
Circles or ribbon in shades of blue, green and rose make the unusual trimming on a bouffant frock of black taffeta.

CLOVES FOR DOUGHNUTS
If you will sprinkle a few cloves in the fat in which you are frying doughnuts you will find the result pleasing.

If you are a constipation victim you need Bran that is ALL BRAN

Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krum-bled, is so delicious and inviting that thousands of families use it constantly to make enticing bakery batches, such as bran muffins, pancakes, raisin bread, etc.; they eat it as a cereal, and many sprinkle it on their favorite cereal, its nut-like flavor having a fine appeal.

Many more thousands of people eat Kellogg's Bran every day of their lives because it has permanently relieved them of constipation and the dangers of dreaded diseases that constipation leads to. If you are suffering with constipation you need ALL BRAN—Kellogg's Bran—with its permanent corrective qualities. Foods that are part bran can never give the desired relief because they do not contain sufficient of the elements that Kellogg's Bran naturally contains.

When you know that constipation heads directly to Bright's disease and other ailments, there is no time to be lost in experimenting. Kellogg's Bran, delicious in its patented cooked and krum-bled form, becomes an immediate necessity. If it is eaten regularly (two tablespoons daily; in chronic cases with each meal)—it will relieve constipation permanently! Your physician will recommend Kellogg's Bran. It will free you from proprietary pills and cathartics which are as system-racking and almost as dangerous to health as constipation itself!

Her Health

Married—But Happy

By Virginia Lynch Maxwell.

THE fifth Sunday that Billy packed his clubs and went off early to the links, Charlotte rebelled.

"I might as well be single as the way I'm living now," she lamented to her impatient husband. "At least I'd be free to have another man call on me. Some one who might appreciate my company to the extent of giving me one Sunday at home occasionally. Billy, I'm warning you, I feel miserable over this golf mania that's come over you."

Billy sighed. "I know all that, Lot. You've told it to me millions of times during the past few weeks."

"Billy, I've suffered in silence and never uttered a word. How can you say I've nagged you?"

"Of course you haven't said anything. But you've shown your displeasure in any number of ways. You're not pleasant about it, you've got to admit that. I like golfing, Henry and Dick and the whole bunch go over to the links every Sunday and no one hears their wives putting up such a holler."

Charlotte let herself slip to the divan in an attitude of complete submission.

"Well, I s'pose there's no use arguing about it," she sighed. "If you did give up your golf and sat around all day, you'd punish me by being sullen. You'd better go, Billy. I'll never say another word about it."

As he left the house, Charlotte turned resolutely to the telephone. In a moment she was flashing central, repeating to her, in a hard little tone, the number of Flora Manning's telephone. Flora was such an understanding sort of person. She had proven her gift often. Flora would understand Charlotte's predicament. Flora, with her clever mind, would be able to find a solution for her.

It was the throaty voice of Cornelius Manning, Charlotte heard when central gave her the connection. It seemed good to hear his voice. Yet it sent a little pang of jealousy through Charlotte's heart.

"Conny," she found herself asking, "what in the world are you doing home this gorgeous day? I thought you'd be out on the golf links with the rest of the men."

Billy went there more than an hour ago."

"I'm a very domestic animal, you know," Cornelius laughed. "Flora says she gives me up to the office all week so she saves me for her best beau on Sunday. How's that for planning?"

"Wonderful," Charlotte agreed. "Perhaps Flora can give me a few pointers. Will you put her on the wire?"

When Flora picked up her receiver she found Charlotte presumably in the best of spirits. They laughed and chatted gaily. Charlotte agreed to drop over to Flora's for tea later in the afternoon.

Promptly at four o'clock she was on Flora's porch. Connie greeted her. She found Flora fussing over a tray of dainty sandwiches in the spacious kitchen. Connie remained in the living room while Flora and Charlotte presumably prepared the tea.

"I tell you, Flora, it's simply heartbreaking," explained Charlotte, as Flora listened, with animation. "Billy's been on those fool links for the past five Sundays. I don't see how you manage to keep Connie so domesticated."

Flora laughed. She reached out and took Charlotte's hand in big-sisterly fashion.

"Don't worry about it, Lottie," she told her kindly. "That's the big important thing, first. Don't you suppose every woman goes through that stage with her husband? I've been through the golf mania with Con. He spent all his time and money at it—and that was when we couldn't afford it."

Charlotte's eyes brightened. She began to smile.

"Really?" she exclaimed. "Oh, do tell me! How did you cure Con? I'd love to know."

"It was simple enough," said Flora, a merry twinkle lighting her hazel eyes, as she remembered. "I learned golf myself and went along with him. I hated it, at first. But I knew Con would go right on without me if I didn't do something. So I went to a golf school in town while Con was at the office during the week. And I picked it up in six lessons. The first day he was amazed at my playing. Then he became interested in my score. Before three months had passed Con thought I could play a better game than he. And when our friends began to josh him about it, he lost all interest in the game and decided to go in for cards instead. That's my little secret of keeping a husband interested," Flora finished. "I'd suggest you try it on Billy."

"I'll do it," agreed Charlotte enthusiastically. "I'll begin tomorrow."

Setting the Table Correctly

THE style of setting the table changes from time to time as do the styles in the fashion world. There was a time when the hostess spread her table, placing every dish on it before the guests assembled. The serviette was sometime folded and set in the empty tumbler. Then the serviette took the vogue of being placed on the plate.

Custom has changed this style again and now we find the correctly spread table showing the serviette folded into an oblong shape and placed at the left of the plate at the outer edge of the forks. This change in spreading the table is but one showing the tendency to simplify service. The serviette is lifted with the left hand and opened halfway before spreading on the lap. To do this with ease, the natural place for the folded serviette would be at the left of the plate. The serviette should not be opened to its full width but merely opened halfway, so that two thicknesses of the linen offer protection to the gown.

The correctly spread table shows the plate set about one inch from the edge of the table. At the inside right-hand corner the bread and butter plate is placed. The small individual butter spreader may be placed on this plate or at the extreme right of the plate. The silver is placed at the right and at the left of the plate, the pieces being placed in their order of service from the outer edge in toward the plate.

If you are planning a course dinner the following style is good form: Place the oyster fork or cocktail fork at the extreme outer left side of the plate. Next to it place the salad fork, then the dinner fork.

On the right side, beginning with the silver piece used first, which is placed on the outer edge, the butter spreader is first. The second piece is the dinner knife. Following this piece comes the teaspoon and then the dessertspoon, placed at the edge of the plate.

Convenience has established this form so that the table becomes cleared as the meal progresses. The outer pieces of silverware being used first, leave but the plate and the dessert spoon on the table in neat order when the dinner is about over.

Some hostesses prefer to serve their salads at the table. But the hostess who does this will find it more inconvenient. The easier method is to serve the salads on individual salad plates, which are placed at the upper left of the serving plate, directly opposite the bread and butter plate. The water goblet is placed between the two small plates. The serviette, as mentioned, is placed at the extreme outer left side, directly next to the oyster or cocktail fork.

A Variety of Toys for the Kiddies

WHAT kind of toys do you select when you purchase them for your children? Parents do not realize how much a child's proper development may be dependent upon the kind of toys he is permitted to play with.

All children like toys that show action. The picture book is not half so interesting as the toy that shows these fanciful characters in motion. These are the toys for small children. The older boy or girl will appreciate the toy that offers a mechanical possibility. The toy that permits the boy to construct something from his imagination, the empty house that gives the girl an opportunity to develop her domestic instinct will be appreciated by the child of eight or ten years of age. The thinking parent will take care to select toys that their children like. The boy who receives a picture puzzle is given the opportunity to develop his reasoning power. The girl who is given some material, a needle, thread and doll may develop a quality that will be of practical value to her later.

The mother who is interested in the future of her children will make it a point to watch for their individual tastes. A boy who found delight in a picture book and a box of paints and who had no use for the doll picture puzzles requiring an analytical mind later became a noted artist. The child as young as five years will show an individual taste if the parents are careful to watch for it.

*This Week's Favored Recipe—Rice au Gratin.

PICK over two cups of rice, removing all dark grains and bits of foreign matter. Place the rice in a strainer and wash thoroughly. The rice is put into a pot of boiling salted water, and cooked until the grains are soft enough to crush with the fingers.

Rice is then placed in an earthen bowl, covered with milk, the top sprinkled with grated cheese and bread crumbs, and baked in a slow oven until the top shows a hard, brown crust. This dish may be served as the main dish of a meal, as it is very nourishing. Left-over rice may be used up in this way also.

Fashion's Hints for Early Spring

THE lure of hats! Every woman appreciates it, and the first days of Spring bring it more poignantly to mind.

Just what the first Spring millinery creations will be like may be gleaned from the offerings appearing in the salons about this time. Exclusive original models are now being put on display, and from them we may gather the essential points that will characterize the mode of early Spring.

A word as to color seems necessary. In mid-Winter we were likely to favor the shades of brown and tan that are offered. But with the first signs of Spring our minds turn toward the lighter shades. Long ago designers knew of this psychological change that would take place, and they planned ahead to offer us green in all its charming shades.

They compromised, it would seem, when the total of the "greens" were taken, and now are offering an exquisite shade known as reseda. Green hats will be worn with dark gowns. The reverse order will be taboo. If we wear a light gown we must select a light hat, but the dark gown of blue or gray or black will not be permitted a light hat. Reseda green is scheduled to be one of the dominating shades. Combined with metal ribbon or metal ornaments in old silver, copper or gold, it makes a charming combination for mid-season, when the Winter is not yet over nor the warmer days of Spring yet upon us.

Green breathes the days to come, while the cold glitter of the metal trimming keeps us reminded of the days not far behind.

For the warmer days yellow will be popular. At the Southern resorts, which always offer excellent cues to the Spring vogue, yellow is enjoying popularity. It is used in blouses, frocks and hats with equal appropriateness.

Speaking of the craze for blouses, which has brought the top bodice once again into the limelight of fashion, we are reminded of the new line, which seems a happy result of the Russian blouse experiments. The Russian blouses of a few seasons ago—those long, loose affairs that fell as near to the knee as one desired—were not becoming to the average figure. One had to be slender to wear them well. And the slender figure is beginning to bow in submission to the more mature lines.

Designers saw the need of adjusting the flowing bottoms of these blouses to the needs of the figure. As they were, they added pounds to the average figure, regardless of the sheer material. No sooner decided upon than done. Designers agreed that the Russian blouse must be shirred into a becoming wide belt. This was the beginning of the hip-length style which has characterized the mode for the past three seasons. The hips were confined in this belt, the blouse shirred to the belt, and lo! we evolved the "jacquette" blouse.

The jacquette will remain in vogue over the Summer. It may be fashioned of velvet, taffeta, satin or soft crepe silk, but it must boast a design of all-over embroidery if it would reach the ultimatum set by fashion for the first early days of Spring.

Heart Home

My Secrets of Charm

By Marilyn Miller.

MANY women gifted with a beautiful face and figure spoil the original impression by a faulty carriage. An otherwise attractive girl may be inclined to let her shoulders slump. She may stand on one foot while at rest. She may have fallen into the habit of carrying her head in a forward position instead of erect.

These are but a few of the unattractive habits to which so many women are addicted through carelessness. They are enemies to beauty, for true beauty is founded upon a perfect balance. The rule of balance is one of Mr. Ziegfeld's first and most important ones in selecting the beauties for his theatrical productions. He makes it a point to watch the prospective show-girl's balance, for without this fundamental quality true beauty will be lacking.

To test your own balance, stand before a long mirror so that you can get a profile view of your body. Have some one place a rod at your back, one end of which touches your heels. When held in a perpendicular position, the rod should touch your body at the calves of the legs, at the shoulder blades, and at the back of the head. If these points touch the rod all at the same time, you may be assured that your balance is excellent. Move your body so that the rod will touch these points, then cultivate this posture as your standing position. The chances are you will find your shoulder blades a little out of line. To adjust them you will have to move your head backward and upward to its correct position. This will automatically place your shoulder blades where they properly belong.

Do you bend your knees when standing? This is a habit which gives not only an ugly line to the figure but throws the lines of your gown into distortion. It is surprising to see what a change in your posture the straightening of the knees will produce. Keep your hips back, your chest raised and your head fairly high and backward. If you fall into the habit of letting your head bend forward your spine will curve at the back of the neck, giving an unattractive line to your back. You may not notice this for a while, but if you do not correct this fault in time, the muscles at the back of the neck will harden. To correct the faulty posture will then be a difficult task. The unattractive curve will be very prominent when you wear evening clothes.

Many of us fail to realize the effect of our carriage upon our minds. It is a proven fact that the person who carries himself slouchily will develop this fault in his thinking. The woman who carries herself in a dejected pose will reflect this in her disposition. The head that is carried high will give a sense of self-confidence which makes for charm. The chest that is sunken will reflect a morbidness in thought. The rule is a psychological one as well as physical. If you do not expand your lungs when you walk, and this can be done by carrying the chest in its normal position, you will cheat your body of its fresh supply of oxygen which is very necessary if you would have sparkling eyes and an attractive natural coloring in your cheeks and lips.

Watch your posture when you are seated. Do you cross your legs in an ungraceful pose? Do you sit on the very edge of the chair or do you repose when you are seated? Sitting well is quite as important to an attractive posture as standing well. Cultivate the essential quality of balance and the rest of the body will take care of itself.

Question: When you wrote of crude oil for dandruff did you mean the ordinary crude oil?

READER.

Answer: Refined crude oil is the oil I suggested. This may be purchased at your local drug store in small quantity.

The Cheerful Parent

PARENTS or husbands and wives, have you ever realized the value of cheerfulness in your home? Have you ever stopped to think how it affects the future personalities of your children?

Cheerfulness is not free, as many sages have told us. Cheerfulness can only be bought with right thinking and the effort to cast off the innumerable disappointments and bitternesses which confront us every day of our lives. It is a quality to be cultivated, for most of us in this age of civilization allow our dispositions to become warped.

The traveler who sees with his mind as well as his eye will discover an abundance of good cheer and happiness among the colored folks of the South. They live simply. They are grateful to fate for every little gift, for they were long in slavery. Those of us who have grown accustomed to luxury should watch our dispositions. A usually fate has a graceful way of bringing us back to our happy selves through the shock of a financial disaster.

It is a gross carelessness on the part of parents to permit the children to grow up with the "whining" habit. They lose sight of the sunshine and gradually find themselves submerged in the blackness of despair. The household where the parents are always glum will reflect this spirit in the children, even in the attitude of the servants. A sense of humor and a few smiles each day will help lighten the burdens. A judge who tries divorce cases will tell you that the habit of cheerfulness on the part of either parent is the beginning of the final break which so tragically splits up families and casts the children into an unnatural atmosphere.

If you are addicted to this habit, then, why not try to make the home a happier place with a few bright smiles each day? It will pay you by the response you will receive in bright faces and glad eyes.

Personality Counts

ONE woman who has found a means of livelihood through her personality describes her way to success in the following:

"My friends had always told me I possessed a certain amount of personality, and it was this I decided to capitalize."

"I knew many singers, lecturers and artists who were not very successful. I engaged a room at a well-known hotel and sent out cards to those interested in art. My artist friend exhibited his sketches and met the people personally. For individual quick sketches, which he made at the exhibit, he charged two dollars. The fund was divided in half, one half going to the artist and the remaining half going to me for my services. The expense of the hotel room and invitations were paid for by both of us."

"These affairs I arranged in all parts of the city at various times, lectures and concerts alternating with the art exhibits."

What the Housewife Says—

DO not place pineapple in the icechest with other foods. The odor of the pineapple will penetrate and destroy flavors.

When sticking needles in their cases make certain the ends are in the material. A serious scratch may be avoided by this thoughtful-ness.

Cover the telephone book with a washable quality of cretone. It may be kept presentable and attractive after constant use.

A little olive oil rubbed into the shoes once a week will prolong the life of the leather.

Colored pictures may be cut from magazines and neatly framed to decorate the odd room.

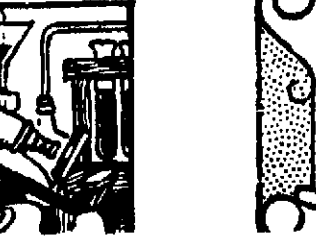

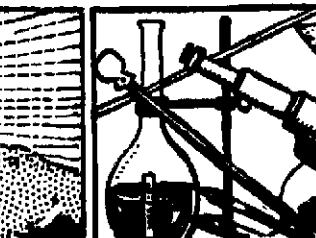

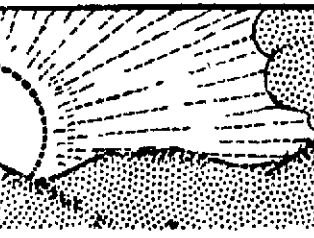

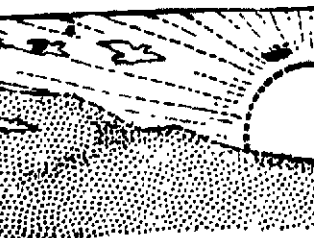

Family portraits are no longer used in the living room. The subjects chosen should be of general interest.

A hall runner which you find worn in spots may be cut into short lengths for small rugs.

Keep ground coffee in an airtight tin and it will not lose its flavor.

Coffee in bean form will keep its flavor longer than ground coffee.

Left-over fruit may be combined with celery and made into a delicious salad.

DE MOLAY CHAPTER
TO BE INSTITUTED
THURSDAY EVENING

Juvenile Lodge Will Be Instituted By Officers Of Kaukauna Chapter

Appleton chapter of the DeMolay order will be instituted at a meeting in Waverly lodge rooms of Masonic hall Thursday evening. Fifty boys who have signed the charter will be initiated at that time with the Kaukauna DeMolay chapter conducting the degree work.

The program is to start at 6:30 with a dinner for the Kaukauna chapter, the candidates for membership and the members of the Appleton advisory council. A meeting then is scheduled for 8 o'clock when the chapter will be instituted. This latter gathering is open to all Masons who desire to witness the ceremony.

Officers will be elected after the chapter has been launched formally and meeting dates twice a month fixed. The DeMolay order is a lodge for boys and is open to sons of Masons and their chums. The boys elect officers from their number and these conduct the degree work on candidates. One member of the Masonic advisory council is present at each meeting.

VALLEY GROUP TO ASK SCOUT CHARTER

Application for the charter of the Valley Council of Boy Scouts will be made at once as a result of the meeting of the council at Hotel Northern on Monday evening. The council accepted the quota of $100 levied by the national council and $50 for charter application.

Routine business was transacted. Work on the inventory of supplies in the Appleton and Neenah and Menasha offices will be undertaken and a report made at the next meeting. H. P. Buck, the scout executive for the valley, is working on the organization of scout committees in each town in order to have a definite organization with which to work.

DEATHS

EVELYN WYDEYEN

Funeral services for Evelyn Wydeyen, four year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Wydeyen of Kimberly, were held at 8 o'clock Tuesday morning from Holy Name church at Kimberly. Burial was made in the church cemetery. The child died Saturday evening.

ANOTHER OFFICIAL
QUITS MILWAUKEE A. C.

By Associated Press
Milwaukee—The resignation of J. J. Blommer, traffic secretary of the Association of Commerce, was mailed to President E. L. Philipp Monday night. It will go into effect Apr. 28. Mr. Blommer said that, although he had good reasons for resigning, he had no statement to make. He has not made plans for the future.

Mr. Blommer's resignation did not come as a surprise to those in close touch with affairs at the association. Since the resignation of Phil A. Grau as executive secretary, there has been an increasing feeling that the head of the traffic bureau would follow.

55-MILE GALE BLOWS
HAVOC IN SUPERIOR

By Associated Press
Superior—A severe wind storm which blew down signs, wires and storm windows coupled with a hail storm lasting from 5:30 to 10 P. M. caused considerable damage in Superior and vicinity Monday night. Walking on the streets was nearly impossible and several women were swept from their feet by the 55-mile an hour gale. Windows were blown in, telephone service was greatly affected and several sheds and barns were blown to pieces.

Automobile traffic was virtually impossible and machines travelling north and south skidded about and nearly turned over at the slippery street intersections. Railroad dispatchers declared the wind was confined to Superior and surrounding territory and that towns outside of the range reported normal conditions.

MRS. G. W. HALL
SICK FOR YEARS

Wants Women to Know How She Was Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Lima, Ohio.—"Indeed, your medicine is all you say it is. I had very severe trouble with my system as women often have, and could do no heavy work. I was sick for several years, and from reading your ads. I finally decided to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I am now doing my own washing, which I haven't done for several years, and can walk long distances without those dragging pains and weak feelings. The Vegetable Compound is fine, and I never forget to say a good word for it to other women when they say they need something."—Mrs. G. W. Hall, 639 Hazel Avenue, Lima, Ohio.

C. C. BAKER MADE
GENERAL CHAIRMAN
OF JULY 4 EVENT

Legion Post To Swing Into Action On Holiday Observance Of Wide Scope

Charles C. Baker, former commander of One Hundredth post of the American Legion, has been selected as general chairman for the Independence day celebration which is to be staged here by the legion post this year. His appointment was confirmed by the executive committee at a meeting in the hotel of Conway hotel Monday evening.

Mr. Baker was given authority to appoint his own committees. He intends to make immediate preparations for the holiday observance. It will be made a Fox river valley affair, and perhaps an Appleton homecoming.

Details of the celebration will be discussed at the meeting of the post on Monday, April 9, at Elk hall. This gathering will be one week later than the usual date.

SCHOOL PROBLEM
IN FOREGROUNDChamber Of Commerce Groups
Center Thought On That Subject

That the group meetings of Appleton Chamber of Commerce show an unusual amount of clear thinking on civic problems is the opinion of C. E. Yount, the American City bureau man who is assisting with the conducting of these meetings. The unified school system and the building of proper junior high school buildings seems to be the paramount issue in the minds of the who have been at the meetings so far.

On Monday evening, both groups spent a considerable portion of the time on the school problems. It happened that there was a school man in each group who could give information first hand to those who wished to know definite things about the schools.

More meetings of groups of the membership will be held until Thursday evening. After that meetings, the results of the questionnaires will be published and will determine where the chamber will direct its attention.

FRENCH TO PREACH AT

There are many women who find their household duties almost unbearable owing to some weakness or derangement. The trouble may be slight, yet cause such annoying symptoms as dragging pains, weakness and a run-down feeling.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a splendid medicine for such conditions. It has in many cases relieved those symptoms by removing the cause of them. Mrs. Hall's experience is but one of many.

EDITOR OF LE MATIN
TELLS WHAT FRANCE WANTS

ment. When the payments are made, the mortgage will have to be released and the bailiffs will leave the premises.

"Germany did exactly the same thing to us in 1871 and the whole world, including America, approved what Germany did. The last German soldier left France sold in September 1873, eleven days after the last French million had been paid."

QUESTION NO. 3: Isn't this the Ruhr campaign really an attempt to destroy Germany economically and break her up into little states?

Lauzanne replied: "No more than Germany, occupying 19 French departments in 1871, desired to break up France into little states. Germany wanted only to collect the money. France today wants only to get her money."

QUESTION NO. 4: The charge has also been printed in English papers that of the billions of francs voted by your parliament for reconstructing northern France, huge sums were diverted and sent to little nations for military purposes and that only recently 400 million francs were advanced to Poland for the army. Is this true?

Lauzanne replied: "The charge is untrue and ridiculous. Every cent voted by parliament for reconstructing northern France has gone to that work. The 400 million francs recently advanced to Poland—mainly for economical construction and only partially for army purposes—was voted officially by the French parliament, as was the 300,000,000 francs advanced to Austria as the French part of the international loan to that distressed country."

QUESTION NO. 5: What about the old charge that France is militaristic, that she has the biggest and best equipped army in the world, and is planning a big submarine fleet, and so far hasn't ratified the Washington naval agreement?

Lauzanne replied: "There is no country less militaristic than France. Her 'biggest and best equipped army in the world' has no other purpose than to oblige Germany to pay and that army costs France less than the small army of non-militaristic America. The expenditures for the army in 1922 were $194,498,660, whereas in America for the fiscal year
